Special Notices.

STOCK FOR SALE—NATATORIUM stock—A limited number of shares (190) of the capital stock of the Los Angeles Natatorium Company, organized April 1, 1889, are now placed upon the market at par, $20 each, in five and ten share lots. With each purchase will be issued a free season ticket, entitling the holder to all privileges of the baths for one year. Upon investigation this will be found to be a safe investment, as the business is well established and a monopoly. Total number of shares, 1,000; for sale, only 190. Call upon or address the Managers at the Natatorium, or REUSTADT & PIRTLE, 27 W. Second st., Burdick building.

STANTON CORPS ATTENTION—All members of Stanton W. R. C. are invited to attend a reception tendered by the four corps of the city to the Department Inspector, Mrs. P. SITTING BULL.

A White Woman Enamored of the Chief,

And Prompting Him to Dig Up the Buried Hatchet.

The Telluride Bank Robbers Make Good Their Escape.

Slogger Sullivan's Special Train Starts for Dixie—Sanguinary Affray in a Missouri Town—Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

ST. PAUL (Minn.), June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] A somewhat uncertain but decidedly powerful influence yet to be met by the Sioux Commissioners is Sitting Bull, and the wily old warrior seems to have been quietly scheming to block the work of the commissioners. He is at Standing Rock agency.

A Globe special from Bismarck, Dak., tonight says one Mrs. Wilder, a widow whose home is at Newark, N. J., has for some time been at the reservation, and has been much fascinated by the old chief. Mrs. Wilder and Sitting Bull have arranged for a trip to the Rosebud agency. Sitting Bull wanted to stir up trouble there for the commissioners, but being unable to leave without permission, Mrs. Wilder undertook to get leave of Agent McLaughlin and was refused. Straightway she became enraged, threatened to secure the agent's removal, and continuing her threats, was ordered by the agent to leave the reservation.

PUGILISTIC POINTS.

The Sullivan-Kilrain Fight—Sheedy Tries to Bluff Killen.

NEW ORLEANS, June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Bud Renaud today received a letter from Charley Reed, the veteran turfman, urging him to see that the Sullivan-Kilrain betting is fairly conducted, and that the men be allowed to fight to a finish. Renaud replied that every effort will be made by the management to secure the results mentioned by Reed; that he hoped the affair would result to the entire satisfaction of every sportingman in the country, as far as fairness is concerned.

Notifications continue to come in from all sections of the country stating that parties are coming, and the management is daily raising the estimate of the probable attendance.

PAT SHEEDY'S BLUFF.

DULUTH (Minn.), June 30.—Pat Killen gave an exhibition last night to a packed house. Before the sparring began a message from the California Athletic Club of San Francisco was read forbidding Killen to engage in any knock-out contests, saying that if he did so all considered his [illegible]

This becoming known, a lot of fighters, Pat Sheedy, Conley and McDonald among them, wanted to stand before Killen. This, of course, was impossible, and for a time a row seemed inevitable. Manager Gooding then offered to put $500 in the hands of any responsible person that Killen could whip any of the gang when the McAuliffe fight is over.

Another account says Sheedy offered $500 to stand up against Killen, but his offer was refused, to the disgust of the audience, who hissed him roundly.

NORTHERN PACIFIC.

The System Acquiring Important Canadian Connections.

ST. PAUL (Minn.), June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] T. F. Oakes, president of the Northern Pacific, in an interview in this city, denies emphatically that his company proposes to withdraw from Canadian relations. He says it is building rapidly through Montana, and admits that negotiations are under way looking to the purchase of the Northwest Central Railway.

"Did you see the article in which an affiliation between the Northern Pacific and Grand Trunk roads was predicted?" was asked.

"That was the great inducement to buy the Wisconsin Central. By that road we got close connections at Chicago with the Grand Trunk. We desired closer relations with that road, and have now got them. You see, by these connections we have a road straight across the continent from Portland, Me., Halifax, Nova Scotia, and Montreal on the St. Lawrence to the Pacific Coast. This gives us a powerful system of roads."

Col. James McNaught, counsel for the road, made a similar statement.

The Northwest Central road, which the Northern Pacific proposes to purchase, and which is as yet only partially built, runs northwest from Manitoba, penetrating the vast wheat fields of the Saskatechewan Valley, the finest wheat-growing district in the world, and terminating at Edmonton. When this belongs to the Northern Pacific and Manitoba it will strike it at Skeena Bay. This is what is known as the "Mackenzie route," which was advocated by Hon. Alex MacKenzie in the days when he was Premier of Canada. It is a very feasible route. The Canadian Government has already made extensive grants to the Northwest Central road.

Baldwin Loses Two Thoroughbreds.

LEXINGTON (Ky.), June 30.—E. J. Baldwin's Santa Anita stud has lost by death the noted brood mare Mission Belle, 7 years old, by Grinstead, dam Josie C., by imported Leamington; and the bay colt Colando, 2 years old, by Grinstead, dam Ophir, by Baywood. The promising 5-year-old stallion by Mambrino, dam Silver Lucre, dam of Silver Ore (2:19¼) dropped dead at the fairground track here yesterday, just after completing a mile trial in 2:50. It is supposed that heart disease was the cause. He was the property of P. Talbert, Inwood stud, and was valued at $5000.

Struck by a Train.

CHICAGO, June 30.—August Moltenhauer, a farmer living near Elmherst, was driving home in a wagon with some friends from Maywood last evening, and tried to cross the Northwestern tracks ahead of a train. The wagon was struck and demolished. Moltenhauer and Mrs. Liebean were killed. Huida Raditz, aged 11, was fatally injured, and two other children were seriously hurt. No blame is attached to the railroad people.

Carnegie's Men Strike.

PITTSBURGH, June 30.—The strike at the great steel plant of Carnegie, against the scale proposed by the firm, was declared on at a meeting of the amalgamated workmen today. After the repairs are completed, if the men still persist in refusing to sign the scale, an attempt will be made to operate the plant with a new force.

A Big Ferryboat Sunk.

WATERTOWN (N. Y.), June 30.—The largest ferry steamer on the Upper St. Lawrence, the William Armstrong, of Ogdensburg, went to the bottom of the river this morning, while ferrying railroad cars. As [illegible] far as learned no lives were lost.

COLORADO OUTLAWS.

Little Hope of Capturing the Telluride Bank Robbers.

DENVER, June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The News' special from Telluride, Colo., says: Deputy Sheriff Knoure of this county and Sheriff Jesse Love of Dolores county, tonight brought in two men, William Madden and George Brown, accomplices in the bank robbery. They were shadowed and found carrying ammunition and provisions to the robbers, who were hidden in the hills between the Dolores and Mancos rivers. William Madden is a brother of one of the robbers, but is no wise implicated except that a note of his was intercepted telling his brother to meet him at a certain point at midnight for conference. He says he is sure that Bert Madden, Bob Porter, Mat Warner and Tom McCartr committed the robbery and that they have been preparing for it for some time.

They are still in the hills, surrounded for miles by a heavy growth of brush, and no trails have been seen except at times on the outskirts. Some 12 or 15 men are still in pursuit, but little hope is entertained of their capture.

A FREE FIGHT.

Fatal Affray Between Rival Factions in a Missouri Town.

GLASGOW (Mo.), June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] A riot between two factions, numbering about 20 persons, occurred in the street yesterday afternoon. The difficulty was the outgrowth of a local feud. John Patton saw Louis Watts on the streets, and commenced throwing stones at him, finally rushing at him with a drawn knife, whereupon Watts drew a revolver and opened fire. Friends of the men rushed in, and the fight became general.

Aaron Johnson and Louis Watts received mortal wounds, and John Patton was shot dead. Six other persons were injured. The Sheriff's forces finally quelled the riot, making a number of arrests.

HONG KONG AND OTHER PLACES INUNDATED.

Fifteen Persons Known to Have Lost Their Lives—Immense Damage to Public and Private Property.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The steamer Rio de Janeiro arrived late tonight from Hong Kong and Yokohama.

One of the most destructive rainstorms in the history of Hong Kong occurred May 29th, and the total rainfall for thirty-three hours was twenty-nine and a half inches. At times the fall measured nearly three inches per hour. Hong Kong papers do not venture an estimate of the loss to private property, such as residences, stores, etc., but place their estimates of the loss to public property at about $200,000. There is scarcely a house within an area of 33 square miles but what suffered.

When the steamer sailed for America all roads and streets in the colony were turned into [illegible] and shops and dwellings were flooded.

Almost every minute during the storm vivid flashes of lightning lit up the streets, which were seen more to resemble the bed of a river than roads in the center of a town. Water piped burst at every corner. Hill roads were cut up almost beyond recognization and level roads were piled with the earth and loosened stones and debris of the upper streets so as to be almost impassable. Eight men were killed by lightning in a matshed. One Chinaman was killed by the falling in of a matshed. On one street a man and boy were drowned in a flooded house. In one district a house collapsed, burying several people, four of whom were seriously or fatally injured. One man was drowned in a street, and another was drowned in a house while it was being borne by the current through the street. Fifteen lives in all were known to have been lost when the steamer sailed for America.

The storm temporarily cut off the large Tytam water supply, and the lower portion of the town is still suffering from a serious dearth of drinking water. A week after the storm the city presented the appearance of having suffered a subterraneous upheaval. During the first part of the week little progress was made with the work of removing the débris. Loud complaints, therefore, arose about the serious dangers to health to which the citizens were exposed by the choking of the drains, and the Government was forced to call in the aid of the military.

BASE-BALL.

A Remarkably Fine Contest at San Francisco—Other Games.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Possibly the best exhibition of the national game that has been seen on any of the California league grounds this season was made at Haight-street Park this afternoon, the contesting teams being the Stocktons and Oaklands. The game was hotly contested for ten innings, and resulted in a victory for the Oakland boys by a score of 3 to 2. Between 4000 and 5000 people were present, and more enthusiasm was manifested than at any game played since the opening of the season.

The Stocktons took the lead in the second inning, scoring one run, and kept it until the sixth, when the Oaklands tied the score. In the eighth inning the former club took another lead of one run, and in the ninth, amid great applause, the Oaklands again tied the score. In the tenth the Oaklands sent another man across the plate, and won the game. Incell and Baker were the opposing pitchers.

SAN FRANCISCO, 14—SACRAMENTO, 13.

SACRAMENTO, June 30.—Despite the fact that the weather was very warm today, a large crowd witnessed the ball game between the San Franciscos and Sacramentos. The local nine had everything its own way up to the ninth inning, the score standing 13 to 3, when the visitors knocked Zeigler out of the box, and he was replaced by Newbert. O'Day had his finger split in the eighth inning, and had to retire. The playing of the San Franciscos was classed as wretched throughout the contest. Score: San Francisco, 14; Sacramento, 13.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA LEAGUE.

MARYSVILLE, June 30.—The first game of the Northern California League baseball series was played today between the Marysville and Sacramento clubs. The latter was victorious. Score, 10 to 6.

EASTERN GAMES.

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—St. Louis, 12; Louisville, 7.

KANSAS CITY, June 30—Kansas City, 3; Cincinnati, 9.

COLUMBUS, June 30.—Columbus, 4; Baltimore, 7.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—Athletics, 3; Brooklyn, 8.

Moody and the College Boys.

NORTHFIELD (Mass.), June 30.—Three hundred students today attended the Moody conference of college students, which will last until July 10th. The sessions will be held mornings and evenings, the afternoons being devoted to athletics under directions of A. A. Stagg, the Yale pitcher. Rev. D. D. Driver, D.D., of Portland, Or., is the leading speaker. Moody preached this afternoon.

The Arbitrators' Decision in an English Turf Scandal.

Portugal Disposed to Submit the Delagoa Bay Trouble to Arbitration—Germany Sides Against England.

By Telegraph to The Times.

CORK, June 30.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The Government's proclamation forbidding the holding of the Nationalists' meeting today was disregarded, scattered meetings being held at several places in the city and vicinity. The result was that William O'Brien and other speakers were arrested. After the arrest of O'Brien the crowds stoned the police, who in turn charged. Several persons were injured including Patrick O'Brien, M.P.

O'Brien, in his speech at Clonakilty, denounced the Government and landlords in the strongest terms. The train conveying him to Cork, after his arrest, was met at Charleville by a band which played "God Save Ireland." The crowd tried to rescue O'Brien and the police fired, wounding a railway official and another person.

Quiet was restored this evening. Thirty-eight persons were treated at the infirmaries for wounds on the head. Patrick O'Brien is in a critical condition.

DELAGOA BAY TROUBLES.

Portugal Willing to Submit the Matter to Arbitration.

LISBON, June 30.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] It is rumored that the Portuguese Government will agree to submit the Delagoa Bay railroad question to arbitration. It is asserted that no violence whatever has been offered to railroad men.

LONDON, June 30.—The Daily Chronicle's Durban correspondent thinks the reports of disturbance at Delagoa Bay were exaggerated. He says the general opinion is that Portugal will buy the railway.

GERMAN SYMPATHY WITH PORTUGAL.

BERLIN, June 30.—The National Zeitung and Politische Nachrichten, commenting on the Delagoa Bay incident, express sympathy with Portugal, and deprecate what they characterize as an English attempt to reduce the South Africa Republic to a British dependency.

Prince Bismarck, in a letter to Herr Faleri on the colonial question, says he regrets that it has always been made a party question, and that money for colonial measures has been voted reluctantly. The Government, he says, can not assume the responsibility of establishing colonial administrations, supported by German officials and military, so long as Parliament and the country withhold encouragement, and fail to display economic enterprise.

OTHER FOREIGN NEWS.

Decision in the Durham-Chetwynd Turf Scandal.

LONDON, June 30.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The decision of the arbitrators in the Durham-Chetwynd turf scandal case is very lengthy. They practically declare that Lord Durham's speech at York constituted a libel. Prominent lawyers question the power of arbitrators to decide upon the payment of costs. The arbitrators' decision says, in effect, that the words of Lord Durham's letter accusing Chetwynd of conniving at serious malpractices, contrary to the rules of racing, were true in substance and fact.

A BALLOONING ACCIDENT.

PARIS, June 30.—While a balloon was ascending from the exposition grounds today, the car caught on the machinery gallery and was detached from its fastenings. The occupants, three in number, fell to the ground. One was killed and two others were dangerously injured.

BOULANGIST THUNDER.

PARIS, June 30.—The Boulangist papers severely denounce Minister Thevenot for his revelations in connection with the letters seized in Meyer's house. While reserving opinion as to the guilt of the accused the papers demand inquiry into the matter.

BERLIN, June 30.—Thirty-six buildings, with a large quantity of machinery, were burned at Luneburg today. The roof of St. Nicholas Church was also destroyed. The loss is 1,200,000 marks.

"LOOKING BACK."

LIKEWISE LOOKING FORWARD AND SIDEWISE.

Edward Bellamy's Remarkable, Not to Say Absurd, Book — Utopia Outdone by the "Nationalists"—New-fangled Notions Versus Old-Fashioned Convictions.

The last sensation and topic of discussion in literary and social circles is Edward Bellamy's novel, "Looking Backward." As this book has excited much criticism in Los Angeles, as well as in cultured Boston, and is receiving more serious consideration than its purport would seem to warrant, a brief résumé of its contents will be acceptable to those who have not been yet able to secure it.

It purports to be the narrative of Julian West of Boston, who, after bidding his betrothed good-night on Decoration day, 1887, goes into a mesmeric slumber in an underground apartment. His house takes fire, all trace of him is lost, and his girl, supposing him to be duly cremated, mourns him for the very decorous period of fourteen years, and then makes a "marriage of esteem."

But Julian slumbers peacefully in his hidden vault, without losing an ounce or turning a hair, till September in the year 2000, when his retreat is accidentally unearthed and he is recalled to consciousness in the house of his discoverer, a Dr. Leete, who is not only a fine gentleman, but an encyclopædia of useful knowledge, always on tap. The Doctor has a handsome daughter, Edith, who of course transpires to be the great-granddaughter of Julian's former love. She also is an endless talker, and after the trio have discussed political economy, sociology, biology and things in general for eight days, with an occasional word in from Mrs. Leete, who seems to have been a quiet old body, Edith and Julian propose to each other in an argumentative way, and it is to be presumed eventually get married.

That is all there is to the plot of the book, if it can be called such. It is, so far as it goes, founded boldly and bodily, even to the great-grandmother incident, on the very clever feuilleton by Edward About, entitled "The Man with the Broken Ear," written some 30 years ago. It is, however, but the colorless and lifeless skeleton of the story of the brilliant Frenchman.

The plot, however, is evidently of no consequence in the eyes of the author, save as a vehicle to introduce his theories to the public, and it is for the theories that the public buys and reads the book. And it is on the whole worth a perusal by those who have leisure and nothing more serious to occupy their attention.

Julian, writing for the people of the year 2000, describes the state of society in 1887, before he entered upon his involuntary hiatus, as being exceedingly bad. He likens the rich, among whom were himself and his Edith No. 1, to those riding on top of a coach, while the poorer classes toiled painfully at the ropes to haul them up and down hill. There were strikes and agitations, and he himself got very mad because the workmen on a new house of his struck—presumably for using Chinese brick.

But when he woke up a century later he saw wonderful things. Boston had been all rebuilt and was covered with palaces of various sizes, surrounded with flowers and musical with birds. In these, doctors, gardeners, clergymen, firemen, judges, clerks, bookmakers and brickmakers all lived according to their taste—for all had equal means. There were great dining-halls, where every one that chose had a private room, and when it rained the sidewalks were all shut in and dry. The laborers had telephonic music halls in their houses, and young collegians of irreproachable demeanor waited on them at table. The different trades sailed yacht races with each other, and the ministers preached sermons by telephone. There were no lawyers.

Every one got the same pay, and all worked in proportion to the irksomeness of their tasks—a hod-carrier having shorter hours than an architect. There was no money—"a cartload of gold would not procure a loaf of bread." Every one was paid in "credit cards." There were great government stores with a little of everything in them, and purchases were paid for by having these "credit cards" punched by gentlemanly clerks not given to conversation.

All this fol-de-rol, and much more like it, imperfectly set forth, with no attention to detail, is made the foundation for interminable dialogues between the good Doctor and his daughter and the newly-awakened, or to speak more correctly, the half-awakened Julian. These conversations partake of the style of Sanford and Merton, or the Youth's Cathechism. The unfortunate Julian plies his adversaries with obvious questions and weak arguments, and the suave Doctor immediately bowls him over with two pages or so of philosophy, and always has the best of it. If he ever lets him up a little, the wise Edith plies him with science and decorous flirtation.

The central idea of the author, on which all this hinges, is that the United States Government should take control of all industries of every kind, and become the paternal guardian of all the people within its boundaries. They are to be taken when young, washed, dressed and sent to school till they are 21 years. They are then to all serve three years as common laborers, after which they will segregate themselves into the different trades and professions, which will be so compensated that all will be filled with volunteers—the collegiate laborers volunteering as teamsters or tailors, farmers, physicians, actors or fishermen, as the fancy strikes them. They will work easily, and live in their chateaux till 45 years of age, after which they will do nothing but draw their pay and have a good time generally. The rare and occasional criminals are treated in hospitals for kleptomania or whatever ails them, cripples and lunatics draw full pay, soldiers are needless and policemen very scarce. The Government runs all the farms and factories, and gives every one a "credit card" for the same amount per annum.

All the European nations are in this beatific scheme, "as well as Australia, Mexico and parts of South America." England is mentioned, but we are not told whether Ireland has joined hands with "the Saxon oppressor." China seems to be still excluded. The cannibals of the Congo and the devil-worshipers of Guiana, as well as some half billion other savages, are to "be gradually educated up to civilized institutions." It is in this chapter on foreign nations that the folly of the author reaches its climax, and no pretense of probability remains.

If the book had any claim to be seriously considered, its omissions would be not less conspicuous than its astounding projects. The Chinese, the negro and the Clan-na-Gael do not appear in the roseate picture, but are probably "swimming below the surface," as Carlyle would say; and the Anarchists are dismissed with the cool intimation that they were subsidized by capital. And the greatest of all the questions of the future—the temperance question—is not even hinted at. Dr. Leete and Julian drink considerable wine as they prose, but the only one cause which could aid in bringing around such a millenium as they picture does not seem worth their discussion. It is to be inferred that many of the young collegians elected to be bartenders.

The author makes an able defense of equal rights for women, and hampered by his wild and visionary ideal, he treats the subject with gallantry and a spirit of justice. Much of this chapter is well worth considering, though it is crude and overdrawn, as is the whole book in a greater degree.

After a week of lectures, capped by a long sermon by telephone, without any religion in it, Julian succumbs, and, going to bed one night, comes out of the trance and wakes up in his vault again in the year 1887. Steeped with the ideas he had received in his dream, he views with horror the Boston of the nineteenth century, and in describing it writes much the best chapter in the book. He dines with his betrothed No. 1, and endeavors to convert her and her guests to the new social dispensation as he has dreamed it. But she repels him, and they drive him from the room.

Upon this he has no alternative but to go back to the millennium, so he wakes up again in Dr. Leete's room, and finds that his last experience was itself a dream. He hunts up his Edith No. 2, and it is to be presumed she keeps him from going back to her great-grandmother again. Nevertheless, the curtain falls with the audience in a vague state of uncertainty as to just what century Mr. West proposes to remain a citizen of. He is now of the year A.D. 2000, but he is quite likely to wake up again in the nineteenth century to draw his share of the despised shekels, and we may yet see him upon the Pacific Coast.

Utopia, Nationalism, Bellamy and Paradise!

VERDUGO, June 25.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Let us devoutly hope that the "churning up of old ideas," referred to by the chairman of the meeting of the National Club on Sunday, 23d inst., may result in bringing nothing but cream to the surface; but, in the minds of many, the probabilities seem to promise that the stirring-up process will but bring to sight again the dregs of deservedly-forgotten centuries. There is, no doubt, at the present time a tendency among a certain class of educated people to exaggerate the value of human learning too such an extent as to confound it with wisdom, to do away with some old-fashioned theories apparently because the "common people" are wedded to them, and to attempt to create a heaven upon earth, into which favored ones may enter by a process of artificial selection, instead of being translated by that grim old fashion, Death!

That the effort to do these things has never yet proved a success does not deter our enthusiastic friends from dreaming their dreams and attempting to materialize solidity out of this "baseless fabric of a vision."

In Edward Bellamy the imaginative faculty is doubtless predominant. He should have turned his attention to poetry. "Looking Backward" is a remarkable book, and sufficiently original to reflect great credit upon the author in this age of ingratitude, crying for something new. It is plausibly constructed, and a beautiful creation withal, so that any attempt to find flaws in it as a literary production is a task savoring of ingratitude. But as a contribution to the world's ideas of political and social economy, that is another matter. The whole scheme after the thing has become a success, is dove-tailed together beautifully and explained in detail so perfectly that the reader cannot help but be in sympathy with the writer, but the "sober second thought" dispels much of the rose color, and the matter-of-fact reader asks: Why is no mention made of other evils than the love of money? How can heaven be attained by all humanity if but one of the base motives of human action is eliminated—or its temptation removed? What of pride, envy, lust, the love of excitement and of change? The necessity for the breaking of the Sixth Commandment is done away with (in theory), but what of the remaining nine? Yes, the work is reasonably logical as far as it goes, so are the fictions of Jules Verne, but is it any more practicable for us to make a voyage to the moon, or to the center of the earth, than it was before that wonderful Frenchman told us in detail how to do it? If Verne should turn political economist, or if the dead Poe could come to life and bend his wonderful genius to the task, the laurels of Bellamy would soon become willows. The argument in "Looking Backward" is based on the Scriptural assert

PASADENA NEWS.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT TWO CHURCHES.

A Survivor—Here and There—Embalmed—Church News—Trail Notes—Bookings—Those Changes—Round About Town—Local and Personal Mention.

PASADENA, June 30.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The weather today was cool and pleasant, and the attendance at the churches unusually large. At the Baptist Church Children's day was observed, as it was also at the Universalist Church in the morning.

AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

the floral decorations were not only beautiful and elaborate, but very profuse, Miss Nellie Stoutenburg and Mrs. George Taylor being on the committee in charge. The whole front of the church was one garden of flowers, while two cages contained each a sweet songster canary. The following programme was well given:

Overture—Y.M.C.A. orchestra.
Responsive reading—148th psalm.
Doxology—Congregation.
Invocation—Rev. C. E. Harris.
Address—Superintendent Barnes.
Song, "The Beautiful Gifts of God"—Eight young ladies.
Responsive Reading, "The Time of Flowers."
Recitation, "Nature's Praise"—Master W. B. Taylor.
Hymn, "For All Thy Love"—By school.
Recitation—Boys' class.
Recitation, "Consider the Lilies"—Flora Banbury.
Song—Infant class.
Recitation, "Rob and the Robbins"—Harold Miller.
Recitation, "Little Buds"—Miss Vore.
Song—Infant class.
Recitation, "Charity"—Marie Canfield.
Address—Rev. Palmer.
Address—Rev. T. N. Lord.
Hymn—"There's a Song in My Heart."
Recitation—"Seed and the Sower"—Miss Boynton.
Song—"Hosanna Sing the Children."
Benediction.

AT THE UNIVERSALIST

Church, services appropriate to the day were also held. The decorations consisted of a triple arch wreathed with pepper branches, and dotted here and there with roses, placed on the pulpit platform with vases of flowers scattered about. The following was the programme:

Organ voluntary—E. R. Prescott.
Anthem, "Remember, O Lord, Thy Tender Mercy"—Choir.
Reading, "Page 89 of the Guide Book."
Prayer—Rev. E. L. Conger.
Solo, "Where Is Heaven?"—Miss Kimball.
Offering for the library fund.
Address by the pastor.

A Sunday-school exercise entitled Barbara's Dream was well given. It consisted of a feast of song and recitations by Daisy Randall, Vira Barker, Ray Gould, Lillie Thorns, Frank Hawley, Winnie Keese, Grace Monroe, Mabel Gould, Addie Clark, Lottie Menner, Beulah Haskell, Augusta Gould, Lida Conger, Margie Fuller and Lulu Conger. J. A. Gates, the superintendent, and Rev. E. L. Conger presided.

LOCAL MENTION.

The City Council will meet in adjourned session Tuesday afternoon. At that meeting an engineer for the new steam fire engine will be appointed.

The West Coast Lumber Company has removed its city office back to the yards below California street.

A trailhouse has been erected at the foot of the Wilson trail by George W. Carter.

Lee McConnell made the remarkable record of going up and down Mt. Wilson from the Cheney camp in exactly five hours. He rode on a mule. The animal, however, will have to recuperate for a week.

EMBALMED.

Richard S. Whipple, who died of consumption on Thursday at Monrovia, now lies in a handsome casket in the undertaking parlors of Lippincott & Son. The deceased was in his 22d year, and is the son of very wealthy parents residing in New York city. Mr. Whipple came out from Los Angeles a few weeks ago in charge of Mrs. J. L. Prince. The remains will be shipped east on Tuesday.

CHURCH NOTES.

"'The Boy's the Father of the Man,' or a Plea for the Young," was the subject of an able discourse by Rev. E. L. Conger at the Universalist Church this evening.

Rev. Joseph Adams of Chicago will deliver a free lecture on metaphysics in the vestry room of the Universalist Church on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. P. F. Bresee preached to a large audience this morning on the "Whisky Craze" at the Methodist Church.

No eulogy was pronounced upon Dr. Reid, but some very hot shot was poured into the tent of those who are antagonistic to the anti-liquor ordinance.

HERE AND THERE.

About 20 Pasadenians took in the excursion to Redondo Beach this morning.

The newly-elected officers of Pasadena Lodge, No. 374, will be duly installed on Thursday evening.

Everything is quiet in police circles, not a single drunk having been seen within a month.

Charles Gray came up this morning from Santa Monica, where he had been employed on a ranch. While doing a piece of heavy work he slipped and fell, severely spraining his arm. The injured member is now in a sling.

Power's Ivy Leaf Company played to an audience of about 100 people at the Grand Saturday night. The play was well put upon the stage and seemed to give general satisfaction. The scenery, however, is considerably worn and might be improved by the substitution of a new set.

A FLOOD SURVIVOR.

Weary, heartsore and haggard there came to the St. Nicholas Hotel yesterday afternoon Mrs. Eliza Watson, a survivor of the awful calamity at Johnstown, Pa., a few weeks ago. A TIMES reporter called on the lady today, and in a few minutes learned her sad story of the loss of relatives and her miraculous escape from death in the watery flood. Mrs. Watson is a lady about 35 years of age, and between bursts of tears the reporter managed to catch a few disconnected facts. On the day of the sorrowful event, Mrs. Watson was engaged in the capacity of a cook for her two sisters, who conducted a millinery store. The water had succeeded in reaching nearly up to the second story, when they were all parted, the sisters going down with the torrent, and Mrs. Watson in another direction, with two children, both of whom were rescued. The corpses of her sisters were found shortly afterward.

Placing the children in the care of the authorities, Mrs. Watson, through the kindness of friends, succeeded in reaching this city, and is now being cared for at the St. Nicholas, having been sent there by Rev. G. A. Ottmann, rector of the Episcopal Church. Mrs. Watson is endeavoring to find the whereabouts of her son Harry, who was last heard from by the mother as being employed at Lamanda Park. Any information as to his whereabouts can be left at the TIMES branch office.

BOOKINGS.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will take place on Tuesday afternoon.

The celebrated Banta will case, now being tried before Judge Clark in the Superior Court, will be resumed on Tuesday.

The regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Pasadena Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Old Jed Prouty is booked for an appearance at an early day at the Grand Opera-house. Lovers of comedy cannot failed to be pleased with this attraction.

Four members of the City Board of Trustees have signified their intention of attending the Fourth of July ceremonies at Los Angeles. The fire laddies will remain at home. An invitation has been extended to the lodges, but no answer has as yet been received.

THOSE CHANGES.

Improving changes are now being made in Justice Van Doren's courtroom. The railing remains in the same place, but elevated seats have been arranged for witness and jury. The carpet, too, has been taken up and thoroughly cleaned. The walls and ceiling will be beautified, and the windows given a new lease of life. In taking up the carpets a half inch of solid dust was discovered as a covering for the floor. The Marshal's office has been subdivided, a sliding window and door looking out into the entrance to the courtroom. The Justice's desk is a model of beauty, and will give His Honor a more dignified appearance than ever. All in all, the changes were badly needed. Besides changes of venue and changes of room, Justice Van Doren now looks for a change in salary for the better dispensation of justice.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

The funeral of the late Thomas F. O'Reilly took place this afternoon and was largely attended. Deceased was a man who made friends on all sides.

The Case accessory trial has not as yet been set for a hearing. The case, however, comes up during the present week before Justice King of Garvanza.

The announcement is made in railroad circles that the Altadena Railroad will be extended to Eaton Cañon. Money has been forwarded to make the survey. Will the San Gabriel Valley road make connection with the Altadena road at the Raymond? is now the leading question asked.

Every citizen of Pasadena, as well as others interested in the formation of a military company, are invited to attend the meeting in the Council chamber on this (Monday) evening. Messrs. Cambell, Grosch and Jones are on the Committee on Temporary Organization. A big effort is now being made to organize the company in order to attend the annual encampment at San Diego in August.

PERSONAL.

Col. J. Banbury arrived home this morning from San Francisco.

THERE is now $130,000 in the Grant monument fund.

NEW YORK CITY isn't all the United States, but it contains 300,000 qualified voters.

THE honey crop of Southern California, it is said, will this year be less than one-seventh of an average.

SOUTH CAROLINA is still largely "off color." There are 200,000 more negroes than whites in that State.

THE central and northern parts of the State have had quite a heavy rain, which is liable to damage fruit and grain.

THE talk about an American Pope is all moonshine. The next Pope will be an Italian, like most of his predecessors.

IT is expected that the census of 1890 will show a population of 65,000,000. More than one per mill of that number will be in Los Angeles city.

UNCLE SAM is still granting lots of farms. Over 16,000,000 acres of land were sold in the last fiscal year under the operation of the homestead and timber culture laws.

THE Colombian press is now as unanimous in its condemnation of De Lesseps, the canal, French contractors and French things in general as it was laudatory of all these a year ago.

THE great Mills building, in New York, that houses as many inhabitants as are found in an average country town, pays, it is said, only two per cent. on the invested capital. Too much competition in such buildings.

THE TIMES is in receipt of a communication from Ph. C. Lewis, treasurer of the Finance Committee for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers, acknowledging receipt of the further sum of fifty dollars forwarded through this journal.

A RAILROAD publication issued in New York city says that the failure of the locomotive engineers to down the "Q" roads on their strike has taken 1000 men out of the order, and that it will be ten years before it will be as powerful as before.

Now that the Arizona papers have worked themselves up even higher than their thermometers, in condemning the idea of returning Geronimo to the Territory, it may interest them to know that no such step has ever been contemplated at Washington.

TWENTY-FIVE merchants from Hayti have reached New York. Affairs at Port-au-Prince have reached such a point that business is out of the question. Everything is stagnant and the town is overrun with ruffians. There is almost no money at all and those who can in any way get hold of a little are leaving the country. Flour is $20 a barrel.

THE Anaheim Gazette announces that the beet seed planted by farmers in that section promises excellent results. A large number of farmers are experimenting with the new industry. It is proposed to send a shipment of beets to both the Spreckels and American sugar refineries in September, and good results are expected. The establishment of sugar refineries would be a great thing for Southern California.

IN case it should be ultimately decided to establish a sewer farm, there is a good deal of sense in the suggestion of the Santa Monica Board of Trade, to establish a great plantation of eucalyptus trees. These trees absorb moisture like a sponge, and are also correctives of malaria. In Australia the bluegum is largely planted about cesspools. Besides this, the eucalyptus yields a large revenue in this section as fuel.

ADVANCEMENT IN EDUCATIONAL METHODS.

Los Angeles has received a very high compliment in the recognition given one of her most popular teachers, Mrs. C. P. Bradfield, the principal of drawing in our public school. In response to the awakened sense of need, felt among the leading educators of the country, of some system of drawing that would meet the wants of the industrial movement in education, and simplify the work for teachers, A. S. Barnes & Co. of New York and Chicago employed Mrs. Bradfield to prepare a work of that nature. The result of their application, made to her some time since, is "Bradfield's Grade Drawing Blanks for Object Drawing, Working Drawing, Designing and Modeling in Clay. To be used with any system of drawing or with none."

These books have received the highest encomiums from leading educators, and, without doubt, will be extensively used, not only upon this coast, but in the East. One great feature is that the teachers and pupils make the geometrical solids for object drawing either in clay or stiff paper from patterns, which by this system they are taught to draw, thus abolishing the need of expensive sets for models, required in other systems of drawing. Another important feature is that each book is complete in itself in every particular, no expensive manual for teachers being needed to supplement any of these works. There are eight books in the series, and the publishers are enthusiastic over the excellence and the completeness of the system presented by Mrs. Bradfield, and show their appreciation by this well-deserved compliment of acceptance and prompt publication.

It is a pleasant thing to have the East, advanced as it is in thought and culture, looking to us of the far West—to Los Angeles for help in the new lines of advanced educational methods, and Los Angeles may well take pride in the fact that she has those who are capable of taking the lead in the grand march toward something higher and better and more helpful in the education of the masses. The time has come when the world demands a broadening of educational methods—when the great public is crying out for some system that shall give to our youth not only the wisdom of book lore, but that shall give them practical knowledge—knowledge that they can take with them from the schoolroom into every department of industrial effort. Men and women all over the civilized world are saying: "Give us a system of education that will educate—one that will not only call the brain into action, but train the eye and the hand to work with it. Educate the whole man and woman, every faculty, every power; teach brain, and arm, and hand, and eye to do skilled work together; give us skilled labor, and fit our sons and daughters for whatever place they may be called to fill in the economy of labor."

There is no surer promulgation of American liberty, no more enlightened apostle of national progress than the industrial schools which are becoming a feature of American education. They will do more than all the mere declarations of American independence, more than all the Fourth of July speeches of a century, to elevate the masses and make of us a people fully imbued with the spirit of liberty and equality. With skilled labor, as taught in our polytechnic institutes, our schools for manual training, and in our public schools, there will inevitably come a respect for labor and for the laborer. Where the sons of the rich man and the poor man work side by side in the industrial schoolroom, the rich man's son can but respect the poor man's son when he sees him intelligent, bright and ambitious, working with that skill and educated effort that insures him success.

Ultimately these schools will crush labor strikes. It is stated that in the departments of skilled labor throughout the country there are far more foreigners to be found than native Americans. They come to us from Germany and Switzerland and other Old World lands, and they fill the lucrative and important places that our own boys are not trained to fill. This is not as it should be. American education must be broadened, and industrial schools must and will become a potent factor in the advancement of our future.

AS THE TIMES noted recently, San Francisco has her well-endowed Polytechnic Institute. It is a flourishing school and is already accomplishing much for the youth of the northern part of the State. In the course of the coming year Los Angeles should have such a school. Here is a work for our wealthy capitalists to take up and help along. And not they alone, but every public-spirited citizen anxious for the advancement of the rising generation in our midst.

When our proposed new High School building is completed, there will be room enough in the upper story for the accommodation of a polytechnic institute, such as we sorely need, if we would have our children keep step in the onward march of education with the children of other large cities. Who among the progressive men will take the matter up and look to the endowment of such a school, and who will see that, by every means possible, our boys and girls are helped, not only to the education afforded by our public schools, as they are now organized, but to that needed industrial education that shall make them self-sustaining and self-respecting, in whatever calling of life they may be destined to fill?

TO OPEN UP THE CONGO.

Among the latest rumors in railroad circles is one which unites the name of C. P. Huntington of the Southern Pacific with an enterprise which contemplates the building of a railroad in Africa, between the lower falls of Congo River and Stanley Pool. Already £850,000 has been subscribed for this purpose. The Belgian Government proposes to put £400,000 into the scheme, while a syndicate of Belgians has subscribed £400,000 more. A friend of Huntington's, Mr. McKinnon, the great Scotch ship-owner, has put his name down for £20,000, and Mr. Huntington, it is stated, will give his name for £10,000. The length of the railroad between the pool and the falls will be 262 miles, and it is said that there are about 3000 miles of fairly navigable water above the pool.

If this project is carried out, it will open the great Congo country to the world. The impelling motive of those interested in this project is to put a stop to the African slave trade. Sentiment rather than purely business enterprise is leading it on. Mr. Huntington, in an interview upon the subject, said that he understood "there were not many portages between the head-waters of the Congo and Victoria Nyanza. There was talk of an English syndicate building a road from the Zanzibar coast to Victoria Nyanza, a distance of something under 400 miles. If both schemes were successful, an immense impetus, would, of course, be given to commerce in a region that was now practically given up to the Arab trader. The latter, when he collected all the ivory he was able to buy, secured negroes to carry it, and, upon arriving at the east coast, sold loads and carriers. He had known Providence and Salem shipowners who grew very rich out of trade with the east coast of Africa. Mr. McKinnon believed there was money in the scheme."

Mr. Huntington was willing to contribute something to kill the slave trade. He had fought slavery from boyhood. He was interested in the scheme from sentimental motives rather than financial reasons, and would only subscribe an amount that he could afford to lose. He did not know how other Americans would look at the scheme.

COL. MESSMORE was in town yesterday from Orange. Since the creation of the new county, the Colonel is a "big Injun." He announces that he intends to be the biggest man in the first council chamber to be held by the Orange-county tribes; in other words, he will be elected Superior Judge or break a trace. From latest accounts, all other candidates have left the field to Chief Messmore. Even the mal nero has taken a back seat, and the icerya purchasi is on a rapid retreat to the woods. Ugh!

A DISPATCH from London confirms a recent report that a syndicate is being formed in England to buy the principal dry goods interests of the chief American cities. The dispatch adds that it is the intention to get the control of the dry goods trade of America, in the same manner as the breweries have been acquired, and that the reported money in the business is not less than £10,000,000. It would probably take a good many times £10,000,000 to control the dry goods trade of the United States.

THE annual adjustment of the salaries of Presidential postmasters, just completed, shows, as might be expected, a reduction in many of the towns of Southern California. Of the Southern California places mentioned, Anaheim, Elsinore, National, Ontario and Orange each drop $100 a year. Monrovia falls $300, while San Bernardino, San Jacinto, San Pedro and Santa Monica each have the distinction of rising $100.

The Semi-Tropic Land Case.

The attorneys of Bonebrake, Howes and Merrill publish through the press, the following broad intimation that the defendants "mean business:"

LOS ANGELES, June 30, 1889.—The publication of the complaint filed yesterday against George H. Bonebrake, F. C. Howes and others, in the newspapers of San Francisco, may be professional and may operate to disqualify many men of San Francisco from acting as jurors, but these defendants reside in Los Angeles, and the case will be tried here; and after a brief statement of the facts constituting the defense to the action, we do not hesitate to state our conviction that, after the trial, the friends of the defendants will have no reason to regret their acquaintance with these men, or to suspect their honesty or integrity, either in this or in any other of their public or private transactions, either here or elsewhere.

We do not believe in trying cases through the newspapers, but our answer will be fully prepared and our defense outlined and set forth and filed in the office of the Clerk within a few days, and knowing that "He laughs best who laughs last," we will let San Francisco giggle now, and reserve our laugh until a home court hands down a vindication in the form of findings and judgment for the defendants.

Death Will Come Along "Bimeby."

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Alas! it seems that some other argument than the welfare of the public interest is the moving influence with our Council. Your appeal to it in this morning's TIMES, under the head of "Brace Up, Gentlemen," is certainly timely, appropriate, and to the point. But the "boys" ain't influenced that way.

Some fellow with an axe to grind, or private job to get through, can beat you or any other advocate of the general welfare all hollow. Now how it is done I don't know. But that it is done, 'tis true, 'tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis, 'tis true. Take your instance of East First street, which the City Council ordered paved with granite blocks. Every ordinary owner of property there strained himself to comply with the order at a time when so expensive an undertaking was a serious matter with him. But to have a uniformly granite-paved street was a desideratum, and so the work went on until, behold! a couple of "magnates" coolly inform the contractor that the street in front of their property must not be paved until they, and not the city and the balance of those interested in the street, are ready. Now, what does the Council do? Nothing, but acquiesce; and so two men with a hundred feet, or so, of frontage and "flooence," and a supposed bank account, stand and hold the entire city at a halt.

Brace up, gentlemen! does not seem to be the exhortation conveying the sentiment these gentlemen of our present City Council understand. Worst of all there does not seem to be any relief, except in the fulness of time and the consciousness that some men don't live always. CIT.

Shocking Affair at San Bernardino.

An Insane Woman Leaps From a Third-story Window.

A Widow Charges That Her Late Husband Was Dosed to Death.

Sarah Althea Now Threatens to Try the Sharon Case on the Lecture Platform—Coast Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN BERNARDINO, June 30.—[Special.] A most horrifying affair occurred here in the early dawn of this morning. Mrs. Cunning, wife of Samuel Cunning, a renter of Architect Fife's place, near North Cucamonga, came out of her room in the private hospital block, conducted by Drs. Phelan and Rowell, at 3:30 a.m., stole from the room, walked to the corridor at the north end of the hall, climbed to the window sill by means of a chair and pitched forward to the ground, a distance of 36 feet, mangling herself in a most shocking manner. She struck upon her head and shoulders. Her jaws were broken in several places, as well as her shoulder and arm.

Immediately after the accident her husband rushed to her and carried her to the room in the third story, where she died about noon. She had been an invalid in the hospital since June 1st, but had never before manifested any somnambulistic traits, and but for her physical excitement, seemed contented and happy. Her husband was sleeping in a communicating room, and knew nothing of her movements until awakened by the nurse, who had heard the fall.

Besides her husband, who is prostrated with grief, she leaves two small children. No cause can be assigned for the deed. A Coroner's jury was summoned this afternoon and viewed the remains, and will take the testimony of the attending physicians and nurse. The family formerly resided near Salt Lake City, where the body will be sent for burial.

ANOTHER CASE FOR THE CORONER.

Another death occurred here early this morning under a combination of circumstances sufficiently peculiar to warrant an inquest. Lorenz Stenz, proprietor of the City bakery, has been acting queerly for several days past. Yesterday he took to his bed, and Dr. Huff was called to treat him. The patient exhibited symptoms of mania, and was under great excitement. The physician remained with him during most of the day and night, administering alleviating drugs. Stenz died at 3 o'clock this morning, and his wife asked for an inquest, saying that she believed the Doctor had given too much morphine.

Coroner Wainwright summoned a jury, who viewed the remains and adjourned till Tuesday.

County Physician Dickey held an autopsy on the remains this afternoon, but the developments are unknown. HORATIO.

Dedication of the New Catholic Cathedral at Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The Catholic Cathedral of the Holy Sacrament was dedicated today with [illegible] Angeles. The early trains from the neighboring towns and cities brought large crowds of visitors to witness the services. The cathedral is the richest and most imposing church edifice on the Pacific Coast, and has been in course of construction for over three years. The actual seating capacity of the cathedral in 1900. The prevailing color of interior frescoing is celestial blue. The dome decorations are all dependent upon some sacred incident or suggestion of the holy writers. The stained-glass windows are magnificent. There are now in course of completion in Rome four large oil paintings, representing events in Bible history, which will adorn the walls.

The ceremony of dedecation commenced with masses at 5 o'clock. The regular services began about noon, when the exterior of the building was sprinkled and blessed by Bishop Monogue, assisted by local and visiting clergy. Following this was a solemn pontifical high mass. Right Rev. Bishop Monogue acted as celebrant. Rev. Father Buchard preached the sermon. The Young Men's Institute of this city was present in a body, attended by representatives of the institute from Marysville and Nevada City.

The interior of the cathedral was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers. During the dedicatory services a select choir of thirty voices furnished music. Upon opening the doors the crush was so great that a number of ladies and children fainted.

CRONIN CONSPIRATORS.

San Francisco Police Trying to Locate a Suspect.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The Chronicle tomorrow will publish at length efforts that have been made here to identify the man whom the Chicago police are said to have under surveillance in this city as being the suspect Simonds, the man who bought the Carlson cottage furniture in the Cronin case. The Chronicle will claim that said suspect is probably one Morris Walsh, now employed on the steamer Acapulco, plying between here and Panama. The Acapulco will be due here again July 10th.

CHICAGO, June 30.—States Attorney Longenecker said today: "I doubt if everything will be in readiness for the Cronin trial before August, and the court takes its vacation during that month. But the vacation might be waived in order to try the case. At present I cannot state with any great definiteness when the trial will be held. All indicted will be tried together."

The Prison Directors.

SACRAMENTO, June 30.—At a meeting of the State Board of Prison Directors at Folsom last night, the following directors were appointed an advisory board for San Quentin prison: Depue, Shattuck and Sontag; and Directors Devlin and Craig were appointed a like committee for Folsom.

President Devlin was selected to go east and visit various reformatory institutions.

Bills and pay-roll were allowed.

The board approved the plans of Engineer Humbert for a power-house for utilizing American River water for the State prison.

Sarah Althea Will Lecture.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—It is reported that Mrs. Sarah Althea Hill Terry has contracted with Charles McGeachy, the eastern theatrical manager, to deliver a series of lectures on the Sharon case at several points along the Pacific Coast next month. It is understood that Mrs. Terry will receive 70 per cent. of the gross receipts and all expenses.

"LOOKING BACKWARD."

Meeting of the National Club Yesterday Afternoon.

The meeting of the National Club at Turnverein Hall yesterday afternoon was well attended, there being about 300 persons, principally ladies, present. The feature of the meeting was a lecture by Mrs. Williams of San Francisco on Edmund Bellamy's "Looking Backward," which has been adopted as the text-book of the club. Mrs. Williams is a very entertaining talker, and was listened to with the closest attention for about an hour. She delivers her lecture while seated at a table, her style being rather conversational than oratorical, but there is a depth of feeling and earnestness about her, a sort of magnetism, as it were, that exercises a wonderful influence over an audience, and for the time being, at least, carries conviction with it.

Owing to the absence of the president, Mr. Fish, the lecturer was introduced by Mrs. Smith in a few appropriate remarks, who, without any useless preliminaries, at once proceeded with the consideration of her subject. "Looking Backward," from a purely literary standpoint, she said, was not a strong book, either in style or plot, and fell far below "Utopia," written hundreds of years ago, from a philosophical point of view. She then referred at some length to the hold which the work had taken on the public, which could only be accounted for by reason of the centralization of idea it contained. She referred to the increase in wealth and poverty, as the country increased in population, and the new condition of things growing out of this new development, and said that unless something were done toward rectifying the evils of the present system of society, a great flood of revolution would sweep over this country, to which the disaster at Johnstown would be as nothing. She did not mean to say that the remedy, as set forth by Bellamy, the doing away with all payment for services, was the proper one, but she insisted that something must be done, and that his work had at least given a subject for careful thought and consideration. She closed by briefly outlining what was necessary to further the great work before the National party, not a political party in any sense of the word, but one in which the great and fundamental principle of the welfare of the entire nation, and advising her hearers to read the book.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Williams's remarks, Mrs. Smith, on behalf of the club, thanked her for her eloquent exposition of the principles of the club as set forth in "Looking Backward," and read the formal declaration of principles of the First National Club of Boston, as adopted by the First National Club of Los Angeles, as follows:

The principle of the brotherhood of humanity is one of the eternal truths that govern the world's progress on lines which distinguish human nature from brute nature.

The principle of competition is simply the application of the brutal law of the survival of the strongest and most cunning.

Therefore, so long as competition continues to be the ruling factor in our industrial system, the highest development of the individual cannot be reached, the loftiest aims of humanity cannot be realized.

No truth can avail unless practically applied. Therefore, those who seek the welfare of man must endeavor to suppress the system founded on the brute principle of competition and put in its place another based on the nobler principle of association.

But in striving to apply [illegible] nobler and wiser principle to the [illegible] conditions of modern life we advocate [illegible] ill-considered changes; we do not censure [illegible] upon individuals; we do not censure those who have accumulated immense fortunes simply by carrying to a logical end the false principle on which business is now based.

The combinations, trusts and syndicates of which the people at present complain demonstrate the practicability of our basic principle of association. We merely seek to push this principle a little further, and have all industries operated in the interest of all by the Nation—the people organized—the organic unity of the whole world.

The present industrial system proves itself wrong by the immense wrongs it produces. It proves itself absurd by the immense waste of energy and material which is admitted to be its concomitant. Against this system we raise our protest. For the abolition of the slavery it has wrought and would perpetuate we pledge our best efforts.

Mrs. Smith then invited any of those present who desired to join the club to come forward and sign the roll, and, after announcing that the Rev. D. V. Bowen of Ontario would lecture in the same hall Sunday week, stated that five minute speeches would be in order from any one who desired to say anything. Prof. Neubauer, Frank Howard, and an old gentleman whose name could not be learned, responded to the invitation, after which the meeting adjourned.

Two Suspicious Fires.

Last evening about 8 o'clock a fire was discovered in the feedbox in one of the stalls in the corral on Upper Main street, near College. Officer Dugan, who had just come on watch, put out the blaze with a few buckets of water, no alarm being turned in. All the indications pointed to incendiarism.

About 1 o'clock this morning another fire was discovered in one of the old adobes on the right-hand side of the street, on Upper Main, near College street, until recently occupied by M. Cohn as a junk shop. A pile of rags and old rubbish on the floor was set on fire, and had been smouldering for some time. Officer Dugan also put out this fire, but some crank commenced firing his pistol, and a wild Chinaman ran up to the Plaza engine-house and gave the alarm, when that engine came out, as did also the hook and ladder truck, but there was no occasion for their services. This fire is also supposed to be of incendiary origin, as the building was vacant, and had been for some time.

The Center of Population.

[Indianapolis News.]

The center of population will be shown to be, by the 1890 census, much nearer to the Mississippi, the Bankers' Magazine thinks, than it was in 1880. This is doubtful. Ohio and Indiana have been growing the last ten years as well as the far west. The center of population in the state of Kansas has moved eastward once or twice, and it is further east now than it was at one time. The last center of population was in Kentucky, a few miles southwest of Cincinnati. The next, it is altogether propable, will be Southern Indiana.

THE SCARLET WOMAN.

MOVEMENT TO GIVE HER A LOCAL HABITATION.

Property-owners on a Portion of New High Street Petition to Have Their Section Set Off for Houses of Prostitution, and Adduce Their Reasons.

A petition will be presented to the City Council this morning, of which the following is a copy. It explains itself:

To the Honorable City Council and Police Commissioners of the City of Los Angeles—GENTLEMEN: The undersigned respectfully represent that they are owners of, and occupants of, property fronting upon New High street, from Bellevue avenue to Alpine street, in the city of Los Angeles—a distance of two very lengthy blocks; that in former years said street has been in fact occupied by houses of prostitution, but that during the past four years many of such places of business have removed from said street and located upon other streets in said city; that Alameda street and other streets have recently been largely occupied by such business houses, and that in consequence of the objections of property-owners and others residing in the vicinity of such houses on Alameda and other streets, a movement has lately been started to cause the removal of all such houses from said Alameda street, and from other prominent business streets in said city.

Your petitioners state that it is highly desirable that all such houses should be located upon some particular street in such a section of the city as would not be offensive to property-holders, or to those having houses, while at the same time the street should be within the easy surveillance of the police authorities. Such a place, your petitioners represent, exists upon said New High street, between Bellevue avenue and Alpine. This street is outside of both the line of street-car travel and those who drive in buggies for recreation and pleasure. There are no private houses or families in this locality, because families will not locate there; consequently there are no children there to be injured by the location of such persons in this locality. It is remote from and away from the view and course of travel of persons going to their places of business or returning to their houses. The property in this part of said street is not liable to depreciation by reason of making such a location of said houses thereon, while by centering all of the houses of this class in the city in this one locality it will remove them from streets and places where their presence is offensive to property-owners or holders and to the general public. The undersigned are willing to have said persons belonging to the above-named class, located upon said street in the district mentioned, inasmuch as some provision must be made for their location somewhere, and the undersigned believe less injury will result to the public from the location as herein requested than if made upon any other street in said city.

And your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

The following are the signatures: H. Marteen, 100 feet front on New High street; S. Nicoletti, 58 feet front on New High street and 120 feet on Walters street; R. Dominguez, 60 feet on New High street; José Redona, 60 feet; Giocomo Tustoni, 77 feet; Giovanni Garibaldi, 38 feet; E. M. Dubourbien, 120 feet; Alfred Olivier, 50 feet; Jean Lenert, 60 feet; Jean Lenert, 40 feet; A. H. Wright, 80 feet; Bridget Gertron, 58 feet on New High and 120 on Walters; J. A. METHODIST ALLIANCE.

The Assemblage at Long Beach This Week.

The Young People's Methodist Alliance will begin its summer session at Long Beach tomorrow, and it promises to be a most interesting occasion. There will be lectures, addresses, sermons, consecration meetings, training classes, circle conferences, a pastors' college, revival conferences and other attractions.

Among those of local prominence who will be present and add their influence and learning for the advancement of the assembly are Rev. Dr. M. M. Bovard, Dr. Bresee, Rev. Dr. Cherrington, Rev. Dr. Cantine, Prof. Warner, Rev. Maclay, Dr. Williams, Rev. Dr. Stevens, Dr. J. P. Widney, Dean Matthew, Rev. Van Cleve and others.

There will be lectures by L. F. Copeland, John Sobieski, Bishop Vincent of the Chautauqua, Prof. A. J. Marks of Chicago, Ill.; Rev. A. C. Hirst, D.D., Rev. R. Harcourt of San Francisco, Prof. Samuel Dickey of Albion, Mich., chairman of the National Temperance Committee.

The musical part of the programme will consist of songs by the Cuthbert family during the day and evening, and during the course there will be a concert before each lecture in the evening, with the exception of three evenings. On these there will be a grand concert by the Jingler Concert Company of Chicago. The Y.M.C.A. Quintette Club of Los Angeles will also assist in the music.

On the 3d of July the W.C.T.U. will take charge of the day's proceedings.

On the Fourth there will be a salute at sunrise, a grand march at 9:30 o'clock, an address by Prof. S. Dickey, and at 7:30 p.m. L. F. Copeland will give his lecture on "The Future of the Republic." There will be a grand display of fireworks at night.

The special days of the Alliance will be W.C.T.U. day, National day, Y.M.C.A. day, Missionary day, Young People's day, Chautauqua day and Children's day.

There will be ample accommodations for all who wish to attend, and rooms can be procured by applying to Rev. Mr. Cole, superintendent of the Alliance.

DRAMATIC.

ARGUMENT OF THE OPERA OF "VIRGINIA."

Which Follows the Fortunes of a "Goose Girl" and Her Swain—Synopsis of "Esmeralda" to Be Given by the Owls.

This evening the Wyatt English Opera Company begins its second week at the Los Angeles Theater. The opera selected is Virginia by Stephens and Solomon, and is full of comedy and catchy airs. The cast of characters is:

"Virginia Somerset," a goose girl, Mrs. Padelford; "Mrs. Cowslip," a farmeress, Miss Anna Dacre; "Amy," the grocer's daughter, Miss Emma Berg; "Lady Magnolia," a landed proprietress, Miss Jennie Metzler; "Alice," the butcher's daughter, Miss May Eckert; "Mildred," the bookseller's daughter, Miss Ethel Avery; "Nicholas de Ville," a mysterious personage, Mr. W. J. Rochester; "Paul Plantagenet," a gamekeeper, Mr. Alfred Wilkie; "Robinson Brown Jones," a railway guard, Mr. M. Cornell; "Samuel Nubbles," a navvy, Feed W. Kavar; "Signor Macaroni," a photographer, J. R. Pavilla.

The plot in brief is as follows:

"It is the 1st of May. All the villagers and fishwives, the workmen and various other personages are assembled in front of the cottage of 'Mrs. Cowslip,' who is in a high state of excitement, it being the wedding day of her supposed grandson, 'Paul Middleton,' to 'Virginia Somerset,' a goose girl. In the midst of the excitement 'Mrs. Cowslip' receives a letter from one, 'Sammy Nubbles,' a navvy and her one-time lover, telling of his approaching arrival. 'Mr. Brown Jones,' a foundling who is miserably unhappy on account of being unable to find any relations, appears upon the scene, and after conversing with some of the tradesmen's daughters, he is met by 'De Ville,' a curious being and a puzzle to all mankind. To this person he sells his soul, on the promise of having for his wife 'Virginia,' who has appeared to him in a vision. 'De Ville,' knowing of the engagement, presents the lovers with magic rings, which changes the affections of 'Virginia' to 'Brown Jones' and of 'Paul' to the 'Lady Magnolia,' a landed proprietress, who has had dangling after her numerous young swells who became much disheartened at her desertion of them.

"'Paul' is appointed, through the influence of 'Lady Magnolia,' a lieutenant in the Royal Navy, and leaves the seaport town. During his absence 'De Ville' lays a trap for the simple-minded goose-girl, 'Virginia,' and so enchants her with his varied and vivid descriptions of the life of a 'profeshional beauty' that she at once accedes to his instructions, and becomes a 'swell.' The ring, which has so changed the love of 'Virginia,' she drops by accident from her finger, and from that moment the old love returns for 'Paul.' From this time 'De Ville' is foiled, and disappears to realms unknown."

The old sleepy town once more takes up the thread of a tranquil life, and all is merry as a marriage bell.

ESMERALDA.

The performance to be given by the Owl Dramatic Club at the Grand Opera-house next Monday will be especially interesting, as being the first presentation in Los Angeles of Mrs. F. H. Burnett's great success, the play of Esmeralda. Her later work, Little Lord Fountleroy, has also been highly successful, but more on account of the factitious interest excited by the precocious youngsters who have severally assumed the part of the little lord, than by reason of any art in the dramatic construction of the piece.

Esmeralda appeals to the sensibilities of all who may be influenced by a plot of strong domestic interest, worked out on a good old-fashioned plan, perhaps, but with nothing mawkish or overdone in the sentiment or diction of the play.

"Old Man Rogers," the quaint North Carolina farmer, living on his native soil and feeling the strongest attachment to his surroundings; tender and loving in his nature, but uncouth, uneducated, and quite under the influence of his termagant wife, is a strong character sketch. Their only daughter "Esmeralda" is in love with "Dave Hardy," a young farmer of the neighborhood, when the play opens, and they are about to be married much to the mother's disappointment, she desiring a much better match for her daughter. The discovery of a drift of iron ore on their farm, and its purchase by a mining speculator, makes the family suddenly wealthy, and the old lady orders a trip to Paris, at the same time breaking off the match between her daughter and "DaveHardy" who are both heart-broken at the fall of the curtain.

The second act discovers the newly-rich family in Paris, and the audience is introduced to the interior of an artist's studio, where a young American, "Jack Desmond," and his two sisters, "Nora" and "Kate," are studying art. They are brought in contact with the Rogers family, and also with the young man, "Dave Hardy," who has followed his lost love, "Esmeralda," across the sea, and is ultimately reduced to a state of destitution in Paris. The mother is about marrying her daughter to a certain needy French marquis for the sake of his title, but her schemes are brought to a sudden termination by the rebellion of her hitherto meek daughter and her docile husband, and also by the discovery that the vein of iron ore on which their fortune was built has suddenly worked out, but has turned up on the adjoining farm of the despised lover, "Dave Hardy," who is therefore a missionaire. This brings matthrs to a satisfactory conclusion.

There are a number of good situations in the play, and there is a good underplot of sentimental interest running between "Estabrook," a wandering artistic bohemian, and "Nora," the impulsive sister of "Jack Desmond."

The piece made a great hit in New York, and had a long run there. It will be presented by the Owl Dramatic Club, with all the necessary accessories, and with that attention to detail which has always characterized the efforts of the society. The occasion will also be the last opportunity to see the beneficiary, Miss Short, and a crowded house may be expected.

THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS.

Commencing this evening Mr. Gilmore's company will tell the story of The Twelve Temptations, greatly elaborated with the introduction of lovely scenery and all the embellishments which can be spectacularly produced. The attraction has been liberally treated by the press of the country, and it is to be hoped that theater-goers will find as much pleasure in viewing it as has been the case elsewhere.

Mr. Gilmore is credited with having revised the play in a more elaborate manner than when it was produced some eighteen years ago by Col. James Fisk, Jr., at the Grand Opera-house, New York city. The story is said to be interesting, while the comedy is very strong. The scenery, which embraces four solid acts, is by Charles H. Getz, Harley Merry and H. L. Reid, whose brushes are famous. Some 280 different costumes, designed by Lucien Baische, London, huge mechanical figures with fairies, gnomes, spirits, etc., abound in profusion. The corps de ballet composes 20 dancers, who are lead by Miles. Bonfanti and Eloise in "The Policemen and the Flirts." The Cockatoo ballett, introducing 20 live birds, and the Ballet of the Nations—each dancer representing a nation, are very novel. The company contains 68 people.

NOTES.

"Nellie Rosebud" (Mrs. George Monroe) will lay off next season. After 11 years of hard work this little lady has earned a rest. During her California trip with the Ivy Leaf Company she has made many friends, who hope to see her again at no far distant day.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's minstrels will be the next big "cork" show to visit Los Angeles. They have, without doubt, one of the finest, if not the finest, companies on the road. Their first part is a feature, and with the army of vocalists they have should give the best singing of any that has visited this city.

The Music and Drama seems to have let up on Louis Morrison. What a difference of opinion an "ad." in one column will make with the man who writes the criticisms in another, has no better illustration than in the case of Morrison and the Music and Drama.

News from Fred Hewitt says that the Cleveland-Haverly show is booming. Will Cleveland is a fighter, and may have a man in the West to fight the Thatcher, Primrose & West show. Why is not the United States large enough for two good minstrel shows, without having to fight.

SANTA MONICA.

Sunday's Chronicilngs at the Ocean Suburb.

SANTA MONICA, June 30.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] There were fully 3500 people on the sands this afternoon. They swarmed in on every train, they came in buggies, a few were on bicycles, and half a dozen of the genus tramp undoubtedly walked in. Every one was determined to have a good day's recreation, and if bathing, fishing, lying on the beach or making the trip up the cañon gave it to them they undoubtedly got it.

Quite a number of the politically-inclined congregated outside the Arcadia bathhouse and gravely discussed the sewer proposition. The Santa Monicans had a good representative of their interests in the person of J. W. Scott, and he pointed out the manner in which the currents worked to the north, a practical illustration being given by a piece of wood which was watched gradually working its way past the bathhouse.

The Soldiers' Home also sent a contingent to the sands. About a dozen of the invalided veterans came down, and apparently had a good time watching the merry-makers and conversing with the many interested in their new quarters.

Of railroad men, Los Angeles had evidently nearly emptied herself. There were present C. F. Smurr, C. Seylor and Bob Hamilton of the Southern Pacific, J. B. Quigley and J. Kyes of the Burlington, S. P. Rees and J. J. Evans of the Los Angeles and Pacific, W. Wardwell of the Chicago and Alton, and Col. Mike Welch, Jr., and Frank Smith of the Texas and Pacific.

Among the host of Angelefios who were at the Arcadia and on the sands during the day were: Judge W. F. Fitzgerald and family, Judge Clark, F. P. Kelley, wife, daughter and his brother, J. C. Kelley of Sacramento; Eugene Maxwell, H. T. D. Wilson, Mr. Adams, A. Solano, T. Rowan, Sr., T. L. Foster, J. Weldon, H. C. Witmer, the Misses Santa Cruz, Col. A. B. Hotchkiss, Mrs. S. B. Carleton, S. H. Weller, R. E. McGregor, C. E. Jones, Sanford Johnson, Miss Estelle Johnson, Miss Minnie Eldred, D. Longstreet, Col. Hunter and S. Reinhart.

A fight that looked as if it would end in a duel took place at midnight in the hollow between the two railroad depots. A party of seven were concluding their festivities at a saloon and a row started. The bartender proceeded to throw out an individual who was the cause of the trouble, and a fight ensued in which the saloon man came off victorious. A revolver and a shotgun were next introduced on the scene, but the disputants were separated in time to avoid bloodshed.

PERSONALS.

Senator Jones's son Roy is home from Harvard.

Judge Clark will arrive at the Arcadia tomorrow for a short vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. J E. Plater will commence their summer stay at the Arcadia tomorrow.

Mrs. Florence Williams, the lecturer, left for Los Angeles today. She gave an essay on "Balzac" in the Arcadia rooms last night.

Dr. MacGowan will arrive at the Arcadia tomorrow for a few days' stay.

Secretary S. P. Rees of the Los Angeles and Pacific Railroad and Register H. W. Patton of the United States Land Office have engaged cottages on Ocean avenue. They will take up their quarters in them today.

Auditor J. J. Evans of the Los Angeles and Pacific will move down for the summer during the course of the week.

The Misses Childs and O. W., Jr., have engaged rooms at the Arcadia for the season.

Fruit in Summer.

[Exchange.]

A great deal of nonsense is written and spoken about the danger of eating fruit. As a matter of fact fruit and vegetables are the normal diet at this time of the year. Meats decompose much more readily, and cause a thousand bowelic disturbances where fruit is the primary cause of one. It is well, however, to eat fruit at meal time, and the man who cannot make a satisfactory breakfast on bread and butter, coffee and strawberries, would better die and be done with it.

A Subordinate Place.

[Boston Journal.]

"Now," said the bridegroom to the bride when they returned from their honeymoon trip, "let us have a clear understanding before we settle down to married life. Are you the president or vice-president of this society?"

"I want to be neither president nor vice-president," she answered. "I will be content with a subordinate place, love."

"What is that?"

"Treasurer."

They Generally Mount the Frame of the Intelligent Compositor.

[Oakland Inquirer.]

Walt Whitman writes a note of thanks to the printers, foreman and proof-readers of the New York World for having brought out his last poem without allowing a single mistake to creep in. Walt is the only person who ever thanked a printer for printing correctly, but everybody curses him when he gets wrong.

TIE AND TRACK.

CONSTRUCTION MOVEMENT ON THE SALT LAKE LINE.

Contractor Terrington Receiving Bids for the First Fifty Miles from Salt Lake—He Says the Line Will Be Put Through to Los Angeles.

At last the indications are that the Los Angeles, Salt Lake and Utah road will be built very soon. The matter has been hanging fire for some eight months, and many people, especially in Los Angeles, were beginning to believe that the whole thing was simply a scheme on the part of a few speculators to get hold of a valuable franchise in this city for terminal facilities, without ever intending to build a road themselves. The projectors did get the Southern Pacific people to take an option on the franchise, but so far as is positively known that company has never taken any steps toward building the road, and it is not believed now that they are interested in the scheme.

Last Saturday J. H. Beeson, one of the best posted railroad men in the country, arrived in Los Angeles from Salt Lake and stated that bids for the first 50 miles of line out from Salt Lake are now being received in Salt Lake by Contractor Terrington, who seems to be well provided with capital, but refuses to say who his backers are. He stated, however, that the road will be pushed through to Los Angeles as rapidly as possible, and he is confident that it will reach this city early next spring.

Mr. Terrington is one of the best known railroad contractors in the United States, and has successfully built roads where no one else would touch them. Who his backers are Mr. Beeson could not learn, and several railroad men in this city are of the opinion that the Southern Pacific people are at the back of the scheme. This, however, is very doubtful for the reason that they would have no excuse for keeping the matter a secret. There is no doubt but that they would like to have the road, but if there is any chance for them to get it cheaper after it is built than they could build it they will not touch it now.

It was believed at one time that the Union Pacific was behind the new road, but this is undoubtedly a mistake, for the reason that it will not hide itself behind Mr. Terrington. On the other hand, it would want the fact advertised all over the country.

All of the trains to Santa Monica and other watering places were crowded with pleasure seekers yesterday. Bathing was better yesterday than it has been any day since the season opened, and everybody had a high old time.

A dispatch from Boston says: The gross earnings of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad for the first week in June were, approximately, $490,440, an increase of $4202 over the same week last year.

The Railroad Commissioners of New Hampshire, in their annual report just published, say that, through the consolidation of roads in that State, lower fares, increased facilities and an improved road-bed have resulted.

It is evident from recent dispatches that roads in the Northwest are losing money at a great rate, for they are cutting down expenses where ever they can. A dispatch from St. Paul, Minn., says: All the Lake Superior lines gave notice of a reduction in canal rates from New York to St. Paul to a basis of 36 cents. This is 2 cents lower than the rates announced on Tuesday. The announcement was also made yesterday that the Fitchburgh would take its usual differential under the 54 cent lake and rail rate. This makes the first-class rate from Boston via that line 49 cents. The Omaha has announced that it will not only reduce its lumber rates to Kansas City to meet the Alton's cut, but will put its Kansas City rates into Council Bluffs, Omaha, Sioux City and other Southwest Missouri points. It does this under the long and short haul clause. The new rate is 15 cents, and applies from all stations on the eastern and northern divisions, as well as St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The "Soo" line has reduced the rates on all traffic from the seaboard to St. Paul on the basis of 75 cents on first class, which is the same rate in effect from the seaboard to Chicago. This places St. Paul on an equality with Chicago in the matter of rates, whether the shipments are by lake and rail or entirely by rail.

The Times Annual Trade Number.

The Times. The Times.

Now Ready, and for sale by Carriers, Newsboys, News Agents, and at the Counter.

ANNUAL TRADE NUMBER,

—CONTAINING—

A COMPLETE REVIEW OF THE YEAR.

Fifty-six Large Pages. Equivalent to a Two Hundred Page Book.

The Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES, now ready, is the most complete and interesting publication of that character ever published in Los Angeles.

NOTABLE FEATURES—It contains a business review of the year, embracing a great mass of valuable facts bearing on the city and county; a thorough exposition of our natural resources—mineral, vegetable, commercial and climatic; a review of the rise and progress of the boom, with solid proofs that the country is now in better condition than it was during the height of the real-estate excitement; a carefully compiled exposition of the varied inducements which Southern California offers to the health-seeker, the home-seeker and the tourist, besides a number of interesting and valuable special articles on pertinent subjects. It contains more solid information about the country than could be crowded into the compass of a hundred long letters, and for a few cents and the expenditure of a few minutes' time in writing the address you can send a friend more information than you could write in a month, even if you had all the facts at hand. For a dollar you can supply ten families in the frozen East with information that may lead them to join the army of pilgrims to Southern California, to their own and this country's advantage. Thus, whether viewed from the standpoint of friendship or self-interest, it will be seen that no better use can be made of a dollar than by purchasing the rewith ten copies of the great Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES. Not one-tenth of the pleasure can be bestowed in any other way for the same amount of money.

ATTENTION!

Cheap Land -:- Good Land.

Dr. E. T. Barber of Lancaster, Antelope Valley, Los Angeles county, Cal., offers 20,000 acres of land for sale, in tracts of 20 acres and upward, at $8 to $0 per acre, with liberal terms and title guaranteed.

This valley has raised the premium wheat of the world; sugar beets at the rate of 21 tons to the acre; barley hay, three tons; eight crops of alfalfa in one year; parsnips seven inches in diameter, and is competent to compete with Spain for raisins, and France for champagne.

All this land offered can be covered with mountain water, and has good surface and artesian water, and much of it has a subsoil irrigation.

The railroad facilities are good: the Southern Pacific Railroad now crosses it, and three other great railroads are expected to do so in the near future.

Climate good—no cyclones, blizzards, fogs or malaria.

Antelope Valley is the hope of the poor, a boon to men of moderate means, and a bonanza to keen-sighted business men.

ORANGE LAND

On Long Time to Actual Settlers.

A part of the lands of the Sespe Land and Water Company at Fillmore, Ventura county, have been set aside for sale on terms extending over six years to ACTUAL SETTLERS.

These lands are well adapted to the production of Oranges, Raisin Grapes or Walnuts. Fine, clean fruit now growing there testifies to its capability. The Southern Pacific Railroad runs directly through the tract, with a station, telegraph and express office. Nowhere is there so fine an opening for men of small means who are workers. For information call on FRANCIS BATES, Secretary.

T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

HIS SERMON IN THE BROOKLYN TABERNACLE.

How to Make Friends—Load Yourself up With Kind Words, Expressions and Greetings—Give God Your Love and Get His Love.

BROOKLYN, June 30.—[Authorized Report for the LOS ANGELES TIMES.] At the Tabernacle this morning, after the pastor, the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., had made an exposition of a passage of scripture, the congregation, led by cornet and organ, sang the hymn beginning:

"Now I have found a friend,
Jesus is mine."

Dr. Talmage's subject was, "How to Make Friends," and his text Proverbs xviii, 24: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." He said:

About the sacred and divine art of making and keeping friends I speak—a subject on which I never heard of any one preaching—and yet God thought it of enough importance to put it in the middle of the Bible, these writings of Solomon, bounded on one side by the popular psalms of David, and on the other by the writings of Isaiah, the greatest of the prophets. It seems all a matter of hap-hazard how many friends we have, or whether we have any friends at all, but there is nothing accidental about it. There is a law which governs the accretion and dispersion of friendships. They did not "just happen so" any more than the tides just happen to rise or fall, or the sun just happens to rise or set. It is a science, an art, a God-given regulation. Tell me how friendly you are to others, and I will tell you how friendly others are to you. I do not say you will not have enemies; indeed, the best way to get ardent friends is to have ardent enemies if you got their enmity in doing the right thing. Good men and women will always have enemies because their goodness is a perpetual rebuke to evil; but this antagonism of foes will make more intense the love of your adherents. Your friends will gather closer around you because of the attacks of your assailants. The more your enemies abuse you, the better your coadjutors will think of you. The best friends we ever had appeared at some juncture when we were especially bombarded. There have been times in my life when unjust assault multiplied my friends, as near as I could calculate, about fifty a minute. You are bound to some people by many cords that neither time nor eternity can break, and I will warrant that many of those cords were twisted by hands malevolent. Human nature was shipwrecked about fifty-nine centuries ago, the captain of that craft, one Adam, and his first mate, running the famous cargo aground on a snag in the River Hiddekel; but there was at least one good trait of human nature that waded safely ashore from that shipwreck, and that is the disposition to take the part of those unfairly dealt with. When it is thoroughly demonstrated that some one is being persecuted, although at the start slanderous tongues were busy enough, defenders finally gather around as thick as honey bees on a trellis of braided honeysuckle. If when set upon by the furies you can have grace enough to keep your mouth shut, and preserve your equipoise, and let others fight your battles, you will find yourself after awhile with a whole cordon of allies. Had not the world given to Christ on his arrival at Palestine a very cold shoulder there would not have been one-half as many angels chanting glory out of the hymn books of the sky bound in black lids of midnight. Had it not been for the heavy and jagged and tortuous cross, Christ would not have been the admired and loved of more people than any being who ever touched foot on either the eastern or western hemispheres. Instead, therefore, of giving up in despair because you have enemies, rejoice in the fact that they rally for you the most helpful and enthusiastic admirers. In other words, there is no virulence, human or diabolic, that can hinder my text from coming true: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly."

It is my ambition to project especially upon the young a thought which may benignly shape their destiny for the here and the hereafter. Before you show yourself friendly, you must be friendly. I do not recommend a dramatized geniality. There is such a thing as pretending to be en rapport with others when we are their dire destructants, and talk against them and wish them calamity. Judas covered up his treachery by a resounding kiss, and caresses may be demoniacal. Better the mythological Cerberus, the three-headed dog of hell, barking at us, than the wolf in sheep's clothing, its brindled hide covered up by deceptive wool, and its deathful howl cadenced into an innocent bleating. D'Israeli writes of Lord Manfred, who, after committing many outrages upon the people, seemed suddenly to become friendly, and invited them to a banquet. After most of the courses of food had been served, he blew a horn, which was in those times a signal for the servants to bring on the desert, but in this case it was the signal for assassins to enter and slay the guests. His pretended friendliness was a cruel fraud; and there are now people whose smile is a falsehood. Before you begin to show yourself friendly you must be friendly. Get your heart right with God and man and this grace will become easy. You may by your own resolution get your nature into a semblance of this virtue, but the grace of God can sublimely lift you into it. Sailing on the river Thames two vessels ran aground. The owners of one got one hundred horses and pulled on the grounded ship and pulled it to pieces. The owners of the other grounded vessel waited till the tides came in and easily floated the ship out of all trouble. So we may pull and haul at our grounded human nature, and try to get it into better condition; but there is nothing like the oceanic tides of God's uplifting grace to hoist us into this kindliness I am eulogizing. If when under the flash of the Holy Ghost we see our own foibles and defects and depravities, we will be very lenient and very easy with others. We will look into their characters for things commendatory and not damnatory. If you would rub your own eye a little more vigorously, you would find a mote in it, the extraction of which would keep you so busy you would not have much time to shoulder your broad-ax and go forth to split up the beam in your neighbor's eye. In a Christian spirit keep on exploring the characters of those you meet, and I am sure you will find something in them delightful and fit for a foundation of friendliness. You invite me to come to your country seat and spend a few days. Thank you! I arrive about noon of a beautiful summer day. What do you do? As soon as I arrive, you take me out under the shadow of the great elms. You take me down to the artificial lake, the spotted trout floating in and out among the white pillars of the pond lilies. You take me to the stalls and kennels, where you keep your fine stock, and here are the Durham cattle and the Gordon setters, and the high-stepping steeds, by pawing and neighing, the only language they can speak, asking for harness or saddle, and a short turn down the road. Then we go back to the house, and you get me in the right light and show me the Kensetts and the Bierstadts on the wall, and take me into the music-room, and show me the bird cages, the canaries in the bay window answering the robins in the tree tops. Thank you! I never enjoyed myself more in the same length of time. Now, why do we not do that way in regard to the characters of others, and show the bloom, and the music, and the bright fountains? No. We say: "Come along and let me show you that man's character. Here is a green-scummed frog-pond, and there's a filthy cellar, and, I guess, under that hedge there must be a blacksnake. Come and let us for an hour or two regale ourselves with the nuisances." Oh, my friends, better cover up the faults and extol the virtues, and this habit once established of universal friendliness will become as easy as it is this morning for a syringa to flood the air with sweetness, as easy as it will be further on in the season for a quail to whistle up from the grass. When we hear something bad about somebody whom we always supposed to be good, take out your leadpencil and say, "Let me see! Before I accept that baleful story against that man's character, I will take off from it twenty-five per cent. for the habit of exaggeration which belongs to the man who first told the story; then I will take off twenty five per cent. for the additions which the spirit of gossip in every community has put upon the original story. Then I will take off twenty-five per cent. from the fact that the man may have been put into circumstances of overpowering temptations. So, I have taken off seventy-five per cent. But I have not heard his side of the story at all, and for that reason, I take off the remaining twenty-five per cent. Excuse me sir, I don't believe a word of it.

But here comes in a defective maxim so often quoted: "Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire." Look at all the smoke for years around Jenner, the introducer of vaccination; and the smoke around Columbus the discoverer; and the smoke around Martin Luther, and Savonarola, and Galileo, and Paul, and John, and Christ, and tell me where was the fire? That is one of the satanic arts to make smoke without fire. Slander, like the world, may be made out of nothing. If the Christian, fair-minded, common sensical spirit in regard to others predominated in the world we should have the millenonium in about six weeks, for would not that be lamb and lion, cow and leopard lying down together? Nothing but the grace of God can ever put us into such a habit of mind and heart as that. The whole tendency is in the opposite direction. This is the way the world talks: I put my name on the back of a man's note, and I had to pay it, and I will never again put my name on the back of any man's note. I gave a beggar 10 cents; and five minutes after I saw him entering a liquor store to spend it. I will never again give a cent to a beggar. I helped that young man start in business, and in after awhile, he came and opened a store next door to me and stole my customers. I will never again trusted in what my neighbor promised to do; and he broke his word, and the Psalmist was right before he corrected himself, for "all men are liars." So men become suspicious and saturnine and selfish, and at every additional wrong done them they put another layer on the wall of their exclusiveness and another bolt to the door that shuts them out from sympathy with the world. They get cheated out of a thousand dollars, or misinterpreted, or disappointed, or betrayed, and higher goes the wall and faster goes another bolt, not realizing that while they lock others out they lock themselves in; and some day they wake up to find themselves imprisoned in a dastardly habit. No friends to others, others are no friends to them. There's an island half way between England, Scotland and Ireland, called the Isle of Man, and the seas dash against all sides of it; and I am told that there is no more lovely place than that Isle of Man. But when a man becomes insular in his disposition and cuts himself off from the main land of the world's sympathies he is despicable, and all around him is an Atlantic Ocean of selfishness. Behold that Isle of Man.

Now supposing that you have, by a divine regeneration, got right toward God and humanity, and you start out to practice my text: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." Fulfill this by all forms of appropriate salutation. Have you noticed that the head is so poised that the easiest thing on earth is to give a nod of recognition? To swing the head from side to side, as when it is wagged in derision, is unnatural and unpleasant; to throw it back invites vertigo; but to drop the chin in greeting is accompanied with so little exertion that all day long and every day you might practice it without the least semblance of fatigue. So also the structure of the hand indicates hand-shaking; the knuckles not made so that the fingers can turn out, but so made that the fingers can turn in, as in clasping hands; and the thumb divided from and set aloof from the fingers, so that while the fingers take your neighbor's hand on one side, the thumb takes it on the other, and pressed together, all the faculties of the hand give emphasis to the salutation. Five sermons in every healthy hand urge us to hand-shaking.

Besides this, every day when you start out, load yourself up with kind thoughts, kind words, kind expressions and kind greetings. When a man or woman does well, tell him so, tell her so. If you meet some one who is improved in health, and it is demonstrated in girth and color, say: "How well you look." But if on the other hand, under the wear and tear of life he appears pale and exhausted, do not introduce sanitary subjects, or say anything at all about physical conditions. In the case of improved health, you have by your words given another impulse toward the robust and the jocund; while in the case of the failing health you have arrested the decline by your silence, by which he concludes: "If I were really so badly off, he would have said something about it." We are all, especially those of a nervous temperament, susceptible to kind words and discouraging words. Form a conspiracy against us, and let ten men meet us at certain points on our way over to business, and let each one say: "How sick you look;" though we should start out well, after meeting the first and hearing his depressing salute, we would begin to examine our symptoms. After meeting the second gloomy accosting, we would conclude we did not feel quite as well as usual. After meeting the third, our sensations would be dreadful, and after meeting the fourth, unless we expected a conspiracy, we would go home and go to bed, and the other six pessimists would be a useless surplus of discouragement. My dear sir, my dear madam, what do you mean by going about this world with disheartenments? Is not the supply of gloom and trouble and misfortune enough to meet the demand without your running a factory of pins and spikes? Why should you plant black and blue in the world when God so seldom plants them? Plenty of scarlet colors, plenty of yellow, plenty of green, plenty of pink, but very seldom a plant black or blue. I never saw a black flower, and there's only here and there a blue bell or a violet; but the blue is for the most part reserved for the sky, and we have to look up to see that, and when we look up no color can do us harm. Why not plant along the paths of others the brightnesses instead of the glooms? Do not prophesy misfortune. If you must be a prophet at all, be an Ezekiel and not a Jeremiah. In ancient times prophets who foretold evil were doing right, for they were divinely directed; but the prophets of evil in our times are generally false prophets. Some of our weather-wise people are prophesying we shall have a summer of unparalleled scorch. It will not be that at all. I think we are going to have a summer of great harvest and universal health; at any rate, I know as much about it as they do. Last fall all the weather prophets agreed in saying we should have a winter of extraordinary severity, blizzard on the heels of blizzard. It was the mildest winter I ever remember to have passed. Indeed, the autumn and the spring almost shoved winter out of the procession. Real troubles have no heralds running ahead of their somber chariots, and no one has any authority in our time to announce their coming. Load yourself up with helpful words and deeds. The hymn once sung in our churches is unfit to be sung, for it says:

"We should suspect some danger near,
Where we possess delight."

In other words, manage to keep miserable all the time. The old song sung at the pianos a quarter of a century ago was right, "Kind words can never die." Such kind words have their nests in kind hearts, and when they are hatched out and take wing, they circle round in flights that never cease, and sportsman's gun cannot shoot them, and storms cannot ruffle their wings, and when they cease flight in these lower skies of earth, they sweep around amid the higher attitudes of heaven. At Baltimore a few days ago I talked into a phonograph. The cylinder containing the words was sent on to Washington, and the next day that cylinder, from another phonographic instrument, when turned, gave back to me the very words I had uttered the day before, and with the same intonations. Scold into a phonograph, and it will scold back. Pour mild words into a phonograph, and it will return the gentleness. Society and the world and the church are phonographs. Give them acerbity and rough treatment, and acerbity and rough treatment you will get back. Give them practical friendliness and they will give back practical friendliness. A father asked his little daughter: "Mary, why is it that everybody loves you?" "She answered: "I don't know, unless it is because I love everybody." "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." We want something like that spirit of sacrifice for others which was seen in the English Channel, where, in a storm, a boat containing three men was upset, and all three were in the water struggling for their lives. A boat came to their relief, and a rope was thrown to one of them, and he refused to take it, saying: "First fling it to Tom; he is just ready to go down. I can last some time longer." A man like that, be he sailor or landsman, be he in upper ranks of society or lower ranks, will always have plenty of friends. What is true manward is true Godward. We must be the friend of God if we want Him to be our friend. We cannot treat Christ badly all our lives, and expect Him to treat us lovingly. I was reading of a sea fight, in which Lord Nelson captured a French officer, and when the French officer offered Lord Nelson his hand, Nelson replied: "First give me your sword, and then give me your hand." Surrender of our resistance to God must precede God's proffer of pardon to us. Repentance before forgiveness. You must give up your rebellious sword before you can get a grasp of the divine hand. Oh, what a glorious state of things to have the friendship of God! Why, we could afford to have all the world against us and all other worlds against us if we had God for us. He could in a minute blot out this universe, and in another minute make a better universe. I have no idea that God tried hard when He made all things. The most brilliant thing known to us is light, and for the creation of that He only used a word of command. As out of a flint a frontiersman strikes a spark, so out of one word God struck the noonday sun. For the making of the present universe I do not read that God lifted so much as a finger. The Bible frequently speaks of God's hand, and God's arm, and God's shoulder, and God's foot; then suppose He should put hand and arm and shoulder and foot to utmost tension, what could He not make? That God, of such demonstrated and undemonstrated strength, you may have for your present and everlasting friend. Not a stately and reticent friend, hard to get at, but as approachable as a country mansion on a summer day when all the doors and windows are wide open. Christ said: "I am the door." And He is a wide door, a high door, a palace door, an always-open door. My 4-year-old child got hurt, and did not cry until hours after when her mother came home, and then she burst into weeping, and some of the domestics, not understanding human nature, said to her: "Why did you not cry before?" She answered: "There was no one to cry to." Now I have to tell you that while human sympathy may be absent, divine sympathy is always accessible. Give God your love and get His love; your service and secure His help; your repentance and have His pardon. God a friend? Why, that means all your wounds medicated, all your sorrows soothed, and if some sudden catastrophe should hurl you out of earth it would only hurl you into heaven. If God is your friend, you cannot go out of the world too quickly or suddenly, so far as your own happiness is concerned. There were two Christians last Tuesday who entered heaven. The one was standing at a window in perfect health, watching the shower, and the lightning instantly slew him, but the lightning did not flash down the sky as swiftly as his spirit flashed upward. The Christian man who died on the same day next door had been for a year or two failing in health, and for the last three months had suffered from a disease that made the nights sleepless and the days an anguish. Do you not really think that the case of the one who went instantly was more desirable than the one who entered the shining gate through a long lane of insomnia and congestion? In the one case, it was like your standing wearily at a door, knocking and waiting, and wondering if it will ever open, and knocking and waiting again; while in the other case, it was a swinging open of the door at the first touch of your knuckle. Give your friendship to God, and have God's friendship for you, and even the worst accident will be a victory.

How refreshing is human friendship, and true friends, what priceless treasures! When sickness comes, and trouble comes, and death comes, we send for our friends first of all, and their appearance in our doorway in any crisis is reinforcement, and when they have entered, we say: "Now it is all right!" Oh what would we do without friends, personal friends, business friends, family friends? But we want something mightier than human friendship in the great exigencies. When Jonathan Edwards in his final hour had given the last good-by to all his earthly friends, he turned on his pillow and closed his eyes, confidently saying, "Now where is Jesus of Nazareth, my true and never-failing friend?" Yes, I admire human friendship as seen in the cases of David and Jonathan, of Paul and Onesiphorus, of Herder and Goethe, of Goldsmith and Reynolds, of Beaumont and Fletcher, of Cowley and Harvey, of Erasmus and Thomas More, of Lessing and Mendelssohn, of Lady Churchill and Princess Anne, of Orestes and Pylades, each requesting that himself might take the point of the dagger so the other might be spared, of Epaminondas and Pelopidas, who locked their shields in battle, determined to die together; but the grandest, the mightiest, the tenderest friendship in all the universe is the friendship between Jesus Christ and a believing soul. Yet after all I have said I feel I have only done what James Marshall, the miner, did in 1848, in California before its gold mines were known. He reached in and put upon the table of his employer, Capt. Sutton, a thimbleful of gold dust. "Where did you get that," said his employer. The reply was: "I got it this morning from a millrace from which the water had been drawn off." But that gold dust which could have been taken up between the finger and the thumb was the prophecy and specimen that revealed California's wealth to all nations. And today I have only put before you a specimen of the value of divine friendship, only a thimbleful of mines inexhaustible and infinite. Through all time and all eternity go on with the exploration.

THE 1st OF JULY.

HISTORICAL MILESTONES SET UP ON THIS DATE.

The Massacre of Wyoming—A War Scare—Gettysburg—Canada—Malvern Hill—The Fortress of Rendsburg—Early Steam Navigation—Battle of the Boyne.

A force of 600 English and a body of Indians appeared in Wyoming Valley on the 1st of July, 1778. Col. Zebulon Butler, a revolutionary officer, collected 300 old men and boys and met the enemy near Wintermoot Fort. Being outnumbered by their adversaries, after an hour's contest, the Americans were outflanked on the left, and Col. Dickinson ordered his men to fall back. The command was misunderstood, and the troops retreated, upon which the Indians rushed forward and a terrible massacre ensued. The Senecas took 225 scalps, and one Tory murdered his own brother in the pursuit. Sixteen prisoners were placed around a stone, and an Indian woman named Esther walked slowly around the circle singing death songs and dispatching the victims one by one with a hatchet. The forts of the valley surrendered on the following day.

THE FRENCH WAR SCARE.

A curious incident of the French war scare of 1798, and the consequent increase of the army and navy, was the act of July 1st of that year, imposing a direct tax of two millions of dollars on slaves and houses. On slaves the tax was 50 cents for all between the ages of 12 and 50, and on houses valued at $500 the rate was one-fifth of 1 per cent., and up to 1 per cent. on those valued at $30,000 and more. The current expenses of the Government at that time amounted to $7,000,000 a year, while the revenue, allowing for the losses inflicted by French cruisers, was $8,000,000.

OPENING OF THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG.

Stuart's cavalry, moving on the Federal right, left Lee's communication with Richmond open to Meade's attack, so that the Confederate commander moved eastward in order to offer a defensive battle, while Meade resolved to make a stand on Pope Creek, 15 miles southeast of Gettysburg, which village he sent Gen. T. F. Reynolds to occupy and overlook the movements of the main army. On the morning of July 1, 1863, Buford's Federal cavalry, moving two miles out of Gettysburg, struck the head of Lee's advance. While Reynolds, who had hurried up, was observing the enemy through a fence, he was struck by a sharpshooter and killed. Both sides were rapidly reinforced, and the Federal troops, becoming entangled in the streets of the village, lost many men, besides abandoning their wounded. Gen. Hancock met the retreating troops hotly pursued by the victorious enemy, and at once prepared to hold the strong position on Cemetery Hill, which had already been occupied by Gen. Howard. Lee decided to postpone the attack until the next day. Hancock informed Meade of the advantages of Cemetery Hill, and when the latter arrived at midnight, amid the tombs of the dead, the plans were laid for the coming struggle. Troops marched all night. Sedgwick's corps arrived in the afternoon of July 2d, as also the Confederate corps of Pickett. The opposing forces were about 80,000 strong.

THE DOMINION OF CANADA

was established on the 1st of July, 1867. The impossibility of the various provinces remaining at peace while separated, led to a grand conference of political leaders at Quebec in 1864. They formulated a plan of union acceptable to the various provinces, and this plan, known as the British North American Act, was passed by the Imperial Parliament at London early in 1867. The provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick joined the confederation at once; Manitoba did so in 1870, British Columbia in 1871, and Prince Edward's Island in 1872.

MALVERN HILL,

the last of McClellan's seven days' battles before Richmond, was fought on July 1, 1862. It was an elevated plateau a mile from the James River, and 11 miles from Richmond, and was a mile and a half in length by three-quarters of a mile in width, flanked by thick woods and protected in front by gullies. Lee attacked the position with 60,000 men, the assault being led by Stonewall Jackson and D. H. Hill. The Confederates were repulsed with a loss of 900 killed and 3500 wounded. McClellan followed up his success by retreating to Harrison's Landing, and Richmond was thus saved from Federal attack.

THE FORTRESS OF RENDSBURG was taken by the Prussians July 1, 1864. This success terminated the Danish war, and secured the annexation of Schleswig and Holstein to Prussia.

EARLY STEAM NAVIGATION.

On the 1st of July, 1801, the experiment was made of working a barge against the tide in the river Thames by means of a steam-engine of very simple construction. The moment the engine was set to work, the barge was brought about, answering her helm quickly; and she made way against a strong current at the rate of two miles and a half an hour. This incident is usually overlooked in the history of steam navigation.

THE BATTLE OF THE BOYNE was fought July 1, 1690, O. S., which corresponds to the 12th of July, N. S.

A Chinaman named Lung Guoy was arrested on Wilmington street early yesterday morning for petty larceny. The police office was telephoned, and Officer Vignes was sent after the heathen. He was locked up.

At the picnic held by the Italian Benevolent Society at the Arroyo Seco, yesterday, Mr. Lewellyn of the Columbia Foundry took the prize as the best gentleman dancer, and Mrs. M. H. Shepard took the prize as the best lady dancer. M. H. Shepard acted as judge.

A visitor who has recently inspected the art department of the University of Southern California, is very enthusiastic over the progress made by the students. She says that the work done during the year reflects much credit on the teacher and pupil, and the group of models and studies from the cast are especially commendable. The painting impressed the visitor as possessing a peculiar delicacy of finish and quiet beauty in light and shade.

CHINESE LOTTERY.

Rival Houses Divided Against Each Other.

The Chinese lottery-players have again got to quarreling among themselves, as indicated by the raid Saturday night, and it is more than probable that other arrests will follow during the week. It is claimed by the proprietors of the new lottery company, whose game was raided, that they refused to contribute $100 per month to the Highbinders' Society, whereupon some of the members of that organization swore out complaints against them. Warrants were issued for their arrest, which were served in the regular way. The case will come up on its merits today or tomorrow, when some of the facts may come out, and the inside facts about the lottery business may be brought to the surface.

Yacht Racing on the 4th at Coronado.

Take advantage of the half fare rates to San Diego, $5.70 the round trip, and enjoy one of the grandest sights imaginable, the struggle for supremacy of seven of the finest yachts on the Pacific Coast. To ascend to the top of one of the towers of the Hotel del Coronado and watch the maneuvers and the dexterous handling of these "winged racers of the sea," mile after mile, far as the eye can scan. The start, the race, the turning point, and the return amidst ringing shouts for the victor and the race is won. The stake boat and starting point of the race is immediately in front of the Hotel del Coronado. Such an opportunity to see a grand yacht race and also to visit this magnificent hotel cannot often be secured at so insignificant a cost. A day so full of healthy excitement and never-flagging interest should be enjoyed by all.

Oxygen, Compound Oxygen, Nitrous Oxide, and other inhalations, used in all DISEASES OF THE LUNGS.

We have introduced the compound oxygen treatment with our systems of practice in the cure of Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Insomnia, Sore Throat, Catarrh, Rheumatism and Nervous Prostration, while only the most improved methods are employed in all female complaints.

As is well known, Oxygen is the life-giving principle in the air we breathe, and Ozone in the air imparts that happy and buoyant feeling after thunder storms. Persons often require more oxygen than is in the air around them, and cause doors and windows to be opened, tear off collars, loosen the waist, and call for a fan to displace the stifling and bring fresher air or more oxygen. Traveling is done mainly to resorts where the air contains more oxygen, and mountains are ascended to breathe the Ozone, which is light and ascends from the earth.

Oxygen and Ozone are gases, and must be stored up and used by inhaling them. Our apparatus for storing and having these gases compounded with other suitable agents is perfect, and though they are not a cure-all, yet they are undoubtedly the greatest invention made in the last twenty years in any department of medicine, and the results are truly wonderful.

Oxygen acts by purifying the blood. Thereby increases the circulation, promotes absorption, improves digestion and assimilation, increases the capability of the lungs, and acts as a gentle stimulant to the nervous system.

The London, Eng., Lancet, very truthfully says: "The compound oxygen treatment is the greatest discovery of the nineteenth century." Clergymen, Statesmen, Lawyers, Doctors and all classes indiscriminately, wherever it is introduced, both use and recommend it.

The testimonials given below are very fair samples as to the time required for effecting cures in these troublesome cases:

Dr. Williams—DEAR SIR: I am happy to say that the cure you effected in me for a severe case of throat disease has proved to be permanent. For over a year I was troubled with post-nasal catarrh and granulated throat disease, and had done so much for it that I had but little hopes of ever being cured, when I first went to you, but you gave me such positive assurance that you could cure me that I began your treatment, and in four months from that time you discharged me as cured, and I am happy to say the cure was a permanent thing in every particular up to the present time, which is now over a year. Yours very truly, MRS. LUCY R. TRASK.
809 South Olive street, Los Angeles, Cal.

Dr. M. Hilton Williams—DEAR SIR: I have been contemplating for some time past making a statement of my case and the benefit I have derived from your treatment, remembering how glad I would have been could I have seen something of the kind from a person in the city, to whom I could have referred, when I first came to Los Angeles from my home in New York State.

I had been suffering for several years with what various physicians in the East pronounced "chronic ulcerated laryngitis." I spent considerable time at the Clifton Sanitarium, and employed the best medical skill I could find, all without any permanent benefit, and as a last resort our family physician recommended Los Angeles. For a time I improved, and then I began to go backward and all my former symptoms returned.

Through a medical friend I was induced to try your treatment. I became very much discouraged at times, but persevered, as I felt almost desperate and knew of nothing else to turn to. My throat trouble being aggravated by a serious stomach difficulty, made it very obstinate to deal with, but at last, after persevering for a time with your remedies, I consider I am permanently cured. If this will be of any value to you you are at perfect liberty to use it; also to refer any one to my mother, my husband or myself. Very truly yours,
MRS. J. D. WILEY,

REDONDO BEACH!

We respectfully invite the attention of the public to the following facts relative to this property:

IT IS THE NEAREST PORT TO LOS ANGELES

Where freight and passenger vessels of largest size can transfer direct to railway cars. It will be connected with Los Angeles and the general system by

TWO LINES OF RAILWAY.

A first-class service will be provided and convenient trains will run during the daytime, thus making Redondo

—THE—

Seaside Suburb of Los Angeles!

—IT WILL ALSO HAVE—

THE FINEST HOTEL

Between Coronado and Monterey, to be erected immediately; has the finest beach for bathing and the best fishing on the coast; is abundantly supplied with and has the richest soil of any seaside resort in the country. It will have elegant and commodious buildings for the permanent use of the CHAUTAUQUA ASSEMBLY, and has a greater variety of attractions for the tourist and health-seeker than can elsewhere be found on the shores of the Pacific.

This Property Has Been Subdivided Into Lots!

Suitably arranged both for homes and business purposes, and the company propose to spare no expense in making REDONDO the most popular resort in California.

INGLEWOOD!

The Centinela-Inglewood Land Comp'y

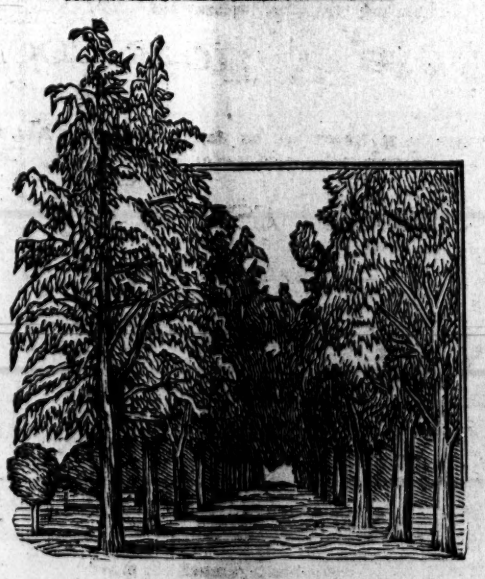
—OFFER FOR SALE—

Choice Residence Lots!

IN ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL ORANGE GROVES IN CALIFORNIA.

Is located midway between Los Angeles and the sea and has a perfect climate, the result of protection from high winds and sudden changes in temperature. The town is provided with a magnificent water system derived from FLOWING ARTESIAN WELLS.

One of the railway lines of the Santa Fe system runs through this place and affords easy access to Los Angeles or the seaside.



Eucalyptus Avenue

THE COMPANY ALSO HAVE FOR SALE

LAND ADJACENT TO THE TOWN!

In Tracts of One Acre to One Section.

The soil is a rich, sandy loam, and for the growth of the Orange, Lemon, and all the Deciduous Fruits, as well as for Vegetables, Flowers, or Nursery Stock, cannot be excelled in the State. Considering the uniformity in the character of the soil, its great productiveness, and the comparatively trifling cost of cultivation,

THESE LANDS ARE OFFERED AT A BARGAIN.

TERMS OF SALE—One-fourth cash, balance in one, two and three years, at a low rate of interest. Address
